Jet Tanker Flies LeMay To Formosa

Communist Shore Batteries Silent, Peiping Radio Isn't

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, vice chief of staff of the U.S. Air Force, flew into Taipei on a speedy KC135 jet tanker Sunday for a look at Nationalist China's air arm.

As his big jet roared into the airstrip, U.S. warships were sitting seven miles off the Red China coast at Quemoy after successfully escorting Nationalist ammunition vessels in defiance of a Communist blockade and newly proclaimed 12-mile sea border.

It was the most positive U.S. move in the Formosa Strait conflict since February 1955, when 7th Fleet ships guarded the evacuation of more than 20,000 persons from the Tachen Islands off the Red mainland. This escort operation put U.S. warships within range of Red guns, planes and torpedo boats.

Words Replace Shells

LeMay came to Formosa as a Red air, sea and artillery war seemed to be turning into one of words. Once again, the shore batteries aiming at the Quemoy complex were silent—but Peiping radio wasn't.

It boomed out more tirade against the United States and the Nationalists and appealed to Communist youth to "liberate Taiwan (Formosa)."

But there was no further comment from the Reds on Premier Chou En-lai's statement calling for a resumption of U.S.-Red Chinese ambassadorial talks to keep peace in the Formosa Strait. Nor was there anything said of President Eisenhower's acceptance, and his suggestion that they begin in Warsaw, capital of Communist Poland.

In many Far East quarters Chou's statement was being viewed as a propaganda move aimed at winning various concessions for the Peiping regime. Communist China is not recognized by the United States, nor is it a member of the United Nations.

Ike's Statement Studied

Nationalist Foreign Minister Huang Shao Ku met with top-ranking Nationalist foreign affairs officials to discuss Eisenhower's response to Chou's statement. There was no immediate official reaction.

But the English-language China News, which has close ties with the government, quoted qualified government observers as saying any new U.S.-Red Chinese talks could result in nothing concrete and that a conference would be a blow to Nationalist prestige.

"There is general dismay over the soft American stand," the newspaper said.

Eisenhower's reply to Chou's statement emphasized, however, that the United States would agree to nothing in the talks that would prejudice the rights of the Nationalists.

"Spaceman" Sets Endurance Mark

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Lt. Richard H. Tabor smashed the endurance record for simulated space flight Sunday and fortified himself with four hours sleep and a steak dinner for the last leg of his 72-hour stay in a 10-by-12-foot low pressure chamber.

Tabor, a flight surgeon, was "going stronger today than yesterday," according to Cmdr. A. L. Hall, a Navy doctor in charge of the experiment.

The purpose of the project is to test human reaction to sustained exposure to conditions in outer space and to test a new-model space suit. It is being conducted at Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Hall said Tabor, 36, was in a "real good mood" as he whizzed at simulated altitudes of more than 15 miles past the 44-hour mark set last May by Lt. Cmdr. Jack Neiman.

Venezuelan Revolt Fails

20 Persons Reported Killed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Rebels staged an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the government Sunday, setting off a bloody eight-hour battle in the heart of Caracas.

The government of Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal announced Sunday night one leader of the abortive coup had been captured and three others had taken refuge in the Mexican Embassy.

Unofficial accounts said about 20 persons were killed and 400 wounded in the day-long violence.

An 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was ordered in this tense city.

The government said Military Police personnel led the plot. The captured insurgent leader was identified as Maj. Jose Hely Mendoza.

The three reported inside the Mexican Embassy were identified as Lt. Col. Juan de Dios Moncada and two aides, Maj. Rafael Pacheco and Maj. Luis Alberto Vivas Ramirez. Government spokesmen said Moncada was believed to be the head of the rebels.

The government said it would ask Mexican authorities to turn over the refugees as common criminals and that it would not issue safe conduct passes for them to leave the country.

In announcing the curfew, Interior Minister Numa Quevedo declared the government would take all measures it felt necessary to punish those responsible for the revolt attempt.

There were no details on Mendoza's capture or how the others managed to flee to the Mexican Embassy.

After their plot was thwarted, rebel leaders took up positions in Military Police headquarters in the center of the city to carry out sporadic fighting throughout the day. When the building finally was entered, it was empty. One rumor said the insurgents had fled through a secret tunnel.

Missing Plane Sought In W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—An Air Force plane which had taken part in a practice search problem was itself the object of a widespread search in southwestern West Virginia tonight.

The plane, a C-45 with possibly four persons aboard, was reported missing on a flight from Bluefield to Charleston.

Johnny Lawrence, agent for the Piedmont Airlines at Mercer County Airport, said the plane was one of three that came to Bluefield from various Air Force bases for a weekend practice search problem that ended Sunday.

Civil Air Patrol sources said the plane was based at Bakalar Air Force Base, near Columbus, Ind.

Unofficial sources at Bluefield said the occupants included a Major Smith, a Captain Holcamp of the Air Force, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton of Huntington, W. Va.

Hamilton has been Piedmont Airlines' manager at Huntington and a major in the CAP.

Civil Air Patrol sources said the plane was believed down between Bluefield and Charleston.

Four Die When Auto Slams Into Train

GRAND RIDGE, Fla. (AP)—An automobile rammed into a passenger train at a crossing Sunday killing four persons. None of the passengers on the Louisville & Nashville railroad's Gulf Wind was reported hurt.

Florida Highway Patrol Cpl. W. H. McKnight listed the dead as Dewey Hughes, 48, of Dothan, Ala.; his wife, Annie Lou Foster Hughes, 47; a son, Marion, 22, and a neighbor of the Hughes, Minnie Nixon, 69.

Another Hughes son, Milford Ernest, 7, was thrown clear on impact and escaped serious injury.

Grand Ridge is a small town 55 miles west of Tallahassee.

The car slammed into the diesel engine and was dragged about 100 feet before breaking loose. The car was demolished and the bodies were badly mangled.

Six Die As Fire Destroys Hotel At Belfast, Maine

BELFAST, Maine (AP)—Fire with a possible fracture of the back. His son was burned and suffered a head injury.

Police Chief Oscar Horne said two other victims were identified as: Clifford Curtis, about 42, a Belfast electrician, and George Turner, about 35, cook at the hotel.

Horne said identities of the other two are reasonably certain but not positive.

He named them as night clerk Richard Moulton, 27, who apparently gave his life trying to arouse sleeping guests, and George Trumbull, about 70, a retired Belfast shoe worker.

All six died of suffocation, Medical Examiner John Caswell said, although their bodies were badly burned.

Fire Chief Henry Chaples estimated loss of the hotel at $100,000.

Talks Await Green Light From China

Next Move In Peace Negotiations Up To Warsaw Envoys

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials said Sunday the United States hopes to start talks with Red China at Warsaw within the next few days on ways to safeguard peace in the Far East.

These officials said instructions have gone out to U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam to stand by for word from his Red Chinese counterpart in Warsaw, Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

The White House announced Saturday, after a meeting between President Eisenhower and members of the National Security Council, that Beam was ready to resume the stalled U.S.-Red China talks. This move came in response to an offer by Communist Premier Chou En-lai to renew negotiations.

Tough Mood Softened

Chou's statement was the first break in a rapidly worsening brink-of-war situation in the Formosa Strait. It softened the tough mood on both sides created by Red China's threats to invade Nationalist-held offshore islands and by U.S. warnings that this might mean war.

But the negotiating positions of both the United States and Red China were so far apart as to make any hope of success at Warsaw look puny.

The United States seeks two things in the talks, previously held from mid-1954 to last Dec. 12 at Geneva: release of all Americans held in China, and a Peiping declaration renouncing the use of force to achieve its political objectives, particularly in the Formosa area.

Peiping's Position

Red China's position is diametrically opposed. Peiping promised to release all the American prisoners, but still holds four. Peiping is rock-hard in its determination to conquer Formosa and all the other Nationalist-held islands. It argues these rightfully belong to the Communist mainland regime and is an internal matter which is nobody else's business.

Global Flier Forced Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—A 39-year-old airline pilot who left here Saturday in an attempt to fly solo around the world in a single-engine plane was forced to land on the island of Corsica Sunday because of engine trouble, according to word received here.

Capt. Charles F. Banfe Jr., was only 180 miles short of Rome, first leg of his projected global flight, when a gasoline line broke while he was flying at an altitude of 7,000 feet.

A spokesman for the Business and Commercial Aviation magazine, for which Banfe works, said it had received word that Banfe landed short of the runway at Bastia Airport on Corsica. However, Banfe was not injured and the plane was not damaged.

Banfe planned to fly on to Rome Monday after the plane was repaired and continue his around the world flight.

Gunman Robs Two Couples, Abducts Girl

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—A crew-cut gunman kidnaped a pretty 18-year-old stenographer early Sunday after flashing headlights on a parked car and shattering its windshield with a bullet.

Other shots rained on the car in which two couples sat terrified. Then they were ordered to step out, leave their valuables on the ground and walk away.

Almost as an afterthought, the gunman turned and said: "Thanks for the money. Sorry I busted up your car. I want the blonde to come with me."

Screaming, Marjorie Schneider was dragged into his late-model car. Her companions rushed two miles to telephone authorities.

Sheriff Ray Scheerer launched an all-out search of the area near Horsetooth reservoir, four miles southwest of Fort Collins, but no definite trail could be followed.

Scheerer said the intruder, armed with a high powered rifle, drove against the foursome's car and fired eight bullets, six of them striking the automobile.

The kidnaped girl, an employee of the Forney Mfg. Co. here, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Schneider of (route 2) W. Keeney, Kan.

The other three were identified as Ellsworth Farnik, 21, of Estes Park, Colo.; James Coleman, about 23, of Fort Collins, and his wife, about 19. They described the intruder as 30 to 35 years old, at least 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing about 165 pounds and blond.

N.Y. Police Act In Racial Fight

Police grapple with youth during free-for-all fight in the Queens, Long Island, section of New York City. More than 60 persons were involved after six whites tangled with a group of colored persons. Baseball bats and whips made from auto radio antennas were used in 10-minute battle before police quelled the disturbance. No one was seriously injured. Six white persons were arrested on charges of inciting a riot.

Maine Election Today Watched For Nov. Omens

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Maine voters pace the national balloting for the last time Monday in an election that may erect important guideposts to November political trends. A record outpouring of votes is widely predicted.

A brisk battle for the U.S. Senate has provided the key race. It may affect the outcome of contests for governor and the U. S. House—and the strategy of both major parties for the November congressional elections elsewhere in the country.

No more will Maine be running off its election two months ahead of all the other states, as it has been doing since it joined the Union in 1820. Starting in 1960, Maine will ballot in November, too.

In the finale of its first-in-the-counting elections, Democrats are counting heavily on elbowing Republican Frederick G. Payne from his U.S. Senate seat. They picked Gov. Edmund G. Muskie for the try.

Not since 1911 has Maine sent a Democrat to the Senate.

But Muskie is something special in the way of Democrats in a state long regarded as a GOP fortress. Muskie has rebuilt party fortunes, he has demonstrated an ability not only to get along with Republicans but also to get votes from some of them and from political independents.

Political writers on Maine newspapers, and some from out of the state have been inclined to size Muskie up as the likely winner.

If he is, Democrats can be expected to seize on the victory as an omen for November and perhaps the 1960 presidential election. They can be expected also to begin blasting away nationwide on the Goldfine-Adams case. Like Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, Payne has acknowledged receiving gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, who was investigated by Congress. People in Maine know about this, they talk about it.

Soviets Present Troika To Eaton

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government gave Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton a troika Sunday.

A troika is a chariot-type vehicle pulled by three horses. Eaton and his wife celebrated the occasion by riding it around the track at the Hippodrome before about 500 people.

Eaton said the Soviet government will send a special train along with his new troika to show Eaton's employees at Arcadia Farms near Cleveland how to feed and care for his gift horses.

Iceland Claims British Beaten

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—The first week of the fish war ended Sunday with Britain having caught nine Icelanders but relatively few fish.

"The British have lost the battle," said a Reykjavik Sunday newspaper headline which seemed to sum up Icelandic opinion.

The British navy still does not know what to do with the nine Icelanders they captured aboard the British trawler Northern Foam last week. The Icelanders were trying to arrest the skipper of the Northern Foam for fishing inside their new 12-mile territorial waters.

Britain says the 12-mile limit is illegal and refuses to recognize it. Naval frigates were sent inside the limit to protect trawlers fishing inside the new zone.

While the trawlers have been trying to fish, and with miserable results according to the Icelanders, the coast guard has been stepping up its war of nerves, as follows:

Icelandic gunboats start at a trawler. Trawler skipper yells for help. When a frigate rushes to the rescue the Icelandic gunboat saucily sails away. Then in a few minutes there is another feint. This churns up the water and frightens away the fish, if not the British.

West Will Meet Red Challenge, President Says

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower served notice Sunday that the West will hold firm against "an undiminished challenge" from the Communists in the Far East.

The President's statement, geared to the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Manila Pact, came as this country and Red China were moving toward ambassador-level talks aimed at settling the Formosa Strait crisis.

"Four years ago," Eisenhower said, "the United States joined with Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand and the United Kingdom to form the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. . . .

"I am convinced that our cooperative efforts will continue to be successful. In the face of an undiminished challenge, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will vigorously maintain the protective shield necessary to the preservation of our common heritage of freedom."

This no-retreat statement came less than 24 hours after the White House announced it welcomed Red China's offer to resume negotiations with Warsaw, Poland, as the site.

In a companion statement at Washington, Secretary of State Dulles said, "International communism has not relaxed its threat to peace and stability in the Southeast Asia Treaty area."

"Recent events in the Taiwan (Formosa) area," Dulles said, "clearly demonstrate that the Chinese Communists have not renounced the use of force to serve their expansionist goals."

Naval Units Lead Convoy To Quemoy

Chinese Reds Fail To Challenge Test Of 12-Mile Limit

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP HELENA OFF QUEMOY (AP)—U.S. warships escorted a Nationalist supply convoy to besieged Quemoy Sunday and ran a Red Chinese blockade unchallenged.

In the first daring daytime convoy, cruisers and destroyers of the powerful U.S. 7th Fleet steamed inside Peiping's newly proclaimed 12-mile limit to help the Nationalists deliver ammunition to the island just a few miles off Red China's coast.

The blockade-running marked the start of a new phase of U.S. support to the Nationalists in holding the offshore islands.

The Communists failed to respond to the test of their blockade and defiance of the 12-mile limit. Red shore batteries remained silent as two Nationalist landing ships nudged onto the beaches of Quemoy and unloaded 300 tons of ammunition while the escorting U.S. destroyers ventured within seven miles of the mainland coast. Nor did the Reds send out any torpedo boats or planes.

Vice Adm. Wallace M. Beakley, commander of the fleet, termed the operation a success.

"It was the first time we have tried a daylight operation and there was no attempt to intercept it," he said.

Reds Halt Bombardment

The Reds announced Saturday they had voluntarily halted their bombardment of the Quemoy complex to give Nationalist soldiers time to reflect.

Beakley directed the escort operation from the bridge of his flagship, the cruiser Helena, which, along with the cruiser Columbus and six American destroyers, convoyed the Nationalist supply vessels across the Formosa Strait to Quemoy. The distance from Formosa to Quemoy is about 100 miles.

Also escorting the two ammunition-laden landing ships were two Nationalist patrol craft and two patrol frigates.

By nightfall the unloading of the ammunition had been completed. Beakley also disclosed that American ships have been escorting Nationalist convoys to Quemoy at night since last Wednesday and said escorting would be a routine thing.

"This is the first time that U.S. forces in daylight have given escort and protection to the three-mile limit," he said.

The U.S. ships went in with orders not to cross the three-mile limit. None went closer than four miles off Quemoy and about seven from the China mainland, flag officers said.

Submarine Scare

As the U. S. ships patrolled the approaches to Quemoy for three hours the escort task force reported a submarine scare. The destroyer Collett signalled about noon she had picked up a suspected submarine contact but this later proved to be from wreckage of a sunken World War II ship on the shallow floor of Formosa Strait.

With the two Nationalist landing ships safely in Quemoy and preparing to pull out, the Helena left the task force and headed for the southern end of Formosa, where Beakley plans to observe joint amphibious exercises Monday of U.S. and Nationalist Marines and naval units.

The Columbus and the destroyers remained off Quemoy. The convoy operation, which could have ignited full-scale hostilities, went off with relative ease.

U.S.-supplied F84 and F86 jet fighters of the Nationalist air force provided air cover for the operation. Four U.S. carriers patrolled the waters east of Formosa, about 150 miles away but only 20 minutes flying time from here. They sent up planes during the morning hours of the operation but were told the aircraft were not needed.

Beakley said later the 45,000-ton carrier Midway had joined his 7th Fleet and that the 65,000-ton carrier Ranger would be added later this year. The arrival of the Midway brought to five the number of flattops now in the atomic-armed fleet.

The fleet is assigned the task of guarding Formosa from Red attack.

Revolt Fails

20 Persons Reported Killed

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Rebels staged an unsuccessful attempt to overthrow the government Sunday, setting off a bloody eight-hour battle in the heart of Caracas.

The government of Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal announced Sunday night one leader of the abortive coup had been captured and three others had taken refuge in the Mexican Embassy.

After their plot was thwarted, rebel leaders took up positions in the center of the city to carry out sporadic fighting throughout the day. When the building finally was entered, it was empty. One rumor said the insurgents had fled through a secret tunnel.

The rebel Military Police leaders holed up in their downtown headquarters building to fight off attacks by civilian vigilantes armed with machetes and lead pipes. About 3 p.m. a detachment of 150 loyal navy troops charged the building. A withering blast of fire turned the navy men back.

Scattered shots were exchanged until about 4:30 p.m.

Then a handful of grade school children climbed into the first and second floors of the Military Police building and found it empty. Soon hundreds of school kids and other young people charged in and set about ransacking the building, despite tear gas hurled by troops.

Most of the day's casualties were said to be among unarmed youngsters, who took a major part in laying siege to the police structure.

Backed by loyal military men and determined civil forces, the street crowds turned the center of the city into a bloody, barricaded battleground.

Outside the Military Police headquarters members of the angry crowds braved machine gun fire to pelt the building with rocks and sticks and homemade gasoline bombs. Sheltered behind barricades, others shouted support for Larrazabal and seemed bent on getting revenge for the attempt to oust him and the other four members of his ruling junta.

The rebels, led by Lt. Col. Jose Hely Mendoza and Juan de Dios Moncada, seized Caracas radio stations before dawn but loyal officers, within minutes, regained control of the stations and called upon the populace to support the government.

Begins Reign As Miss America 1959

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — Mary Ann Mobley, a brown-haired Southern belle who failed in her first attempt at the Miss Mississippi title, Sunday began her reign as Miss America 1959.

The pert 21-year-old college senior from Brandon, Miss., lost out to Mary Imogene Allen, of Yazoo City, as Mississippi's entrant in the Miss America pageant last year.

But Saturday night she came back to win the oldest national beauty crown in America after a week's competition against 51 other girls from the United States, Canada, Hawaii and Alaska.

"It might sound trite, but I had no idea of winning—no idea at all," the new Miss America said. "I feel very inadequate. It's something I can't even comprehend."

Mary Ann broke into tears after she was crowned by the outgoing queen, Marilyn Van Derbur, of Denver, Colo. She said she cried all the more when her chaplain shouted for her to dry her eyes before walking down the 110-foot runway before a capacity Convention Hall crowd of 17,000 and a nationwide television audience.

The new Miss America receives a $10,000 scholarship and about $140,000 in personal appearance fees and other prizes.

She stands 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 114 pounds and measures 34½-22-35. She has brown eyes and an olive complexion.

Mary Ann, who sings in the choir at Brandon Methodist church, began her reign by attending the coronation ball early Sunday morning. Her escorts were West Point cadets Victor Letnoff and Charles P. Otstott.

Her mother, and her attorney-stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, never got to the ball. They were tied up answering long-distance telephone calls from well-wishers.

Mary Ann, who is studying speech and English at the University of Mississippi, would like to become a television or Broadway actress. She hopes to use her scholarship toward that end.

Her hobbies are raising horses and water skiing. She and her sister, Sandra, 12, each has a horse.

She had her first date at 16 and has no steady boy friend but admits she's got someone special in mind.

"I've been lucky enough to date several nice young men but I've never trapped any," she said. "I'm working on one though."

Next Move In Peace
Negotiations Up To Warsaw Envoys

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials said Sunday the United States hopes to start talks with Red China at Warsaw within the next few days on ways to safeguard peace in the Far East.

These officials said instructions have gone out to U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam to stand by for word from his Red Chinese counterpart in Warsaw, Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

The White House announced Saturday, after a meeting between President Eisenhower and members of the National Security Council, that Beam was ready to resume the stalled U.S.-Red China talks. This move came in response to an offer by Communist Premier Chou En-lai to renew negotiations.

Tough Mood Softened

Chou's statement was the first break in a rapidly worsening brink-of-war situation in the Formosa Strait. It softened the tough mood on both sides created by Red China's threats to invade Nationalist-held offshore islands and by U.S. warnings that this might mean war.

But the negotiating positions of both the United States and Red China were so far apart as to make any hope of success at Warsaw look puny.

The United States seeks two things in the talks, previously held from mid-1954 to last Dec. 12 at Geneva: release of all American held in China, and a Peiping declaration renouncing the use of force to achieve its political objectives, particularly in the Formosa area.

Peiping's Position

Red China's position is diametrically opposed. Peiping promised to release all the American prisoners, but still holds four. Peiping is rock-hard in its determination to conquer Formosa and all the other Nationalist-held islands. It argues these rightfully belong to the Communist mainland regime and is an internal matter which is nobody else's business.

Global Flier
Forced Down

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 39-year-old airline pilot who left here Saturday in an attempt to fly solo around the world in a single-engine plane was forced to land on the island of Corsica Sunday because of engine trouble, according to word received here.

Capt. Charles F. Banfe Jr. was only 180 miles short of Rome, first leg of his projected global flight, when a gasoline line broke while he was flying at an altitude of 7,000 feet.

A spokesman for the Business and Commercial Aviation magazine, for which Banfe works, said it had received word that Banfe landed short of the runway at Bastia Airport on Corsica. However, Banfe was not injured and the plane was not damaged.

Banfe planned to fly on to Rome Monday after the plane was repaired and continue his around the world flight.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A huge fire in the heart of Jakarta reduced 451 houses to ashes Saturday and left 3,728 persons homeless. No casualties have been reported so far. Origin of the fire is undetermined.

Chiang Gets U.S. Loan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department announced Sunday that the United States is lending Nationalist China $21,500,000 from the development loan fund to help finance the Shihmen Dam project in northwest Formosa.

N.Y. Police Act In Racial Fight

Police grapple with youth during free-for-all fight in the Queens, Long Island, section of New York City. More than 60 persons were involved after six whites tangled with a group of colored persons. Baseball bats and whips made from auto radio antennas were used in 10-minute battle before police quelled the disturbance. No one was seriously injured. Six white persons were arrested on charges of inciting a riot.

Maine Election
Today Watched
For Nov. Omens

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Maine voters pace the national balloting for the last time Monday in an election that may erect important guideposts to November political trends. A record outpouring of votes is widely predicted.

A brisk battle for the U.S. Senate has provided the key race. It may affect the outcome of contests for governor and the U. S. House—and the strategy of both major parties for the November congressional elections elsewhere in the country.

No more will Maine be running off its election two months ahead of all the other states, as it has been doing since it joined the union in 1820. Starting in 1960, Maine will ballot in November, too.

In the finale of its first-in-the-nation elections, Democrats are counting heavily on elbowing Republican Frederick G. Payne from his U.S. Senate seat. They picked Gov. Edmund G. Muskie for the try.

Not since 1911 has Maine sent a Democrat to the Senate.

But Muskie is something special in the way of Democrats in a state long regarded as a GOP fortress. Muskie has rebuilt party fortunes, he has demonstrated an ability not only to get along with Republicans but also to get votes from some of them and from political independents.

Political writers on Maine newspapers, and some from out of the state have been inclined to size Muskie up as the likely winner.

If he is, Democrats can be expected to seize on the victory as an omen for November and perhaps the 1960 presidential election. They can be expected also to begin blasting away nationwide on the Goldfine-Adams case. Like Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, Payne has acknowledged receiving gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, who was investigated by Congress. People in Maine know about this, they talk about it.

Four Die When Auto
Slams Into Train

GRAND RIDGE, Fla. (AP)—An automobile rammed into a passenger train at a crossing Sunday, killing four persons. None of the passengers on the Louisville & Nashville railroad's Gulf Wind was reported hurt.

Florida Highway Patrol Cpl. W. H. McKnight listed the dead as Dewey Hughes, 48, of Dothan, Ala.; his wife, Annie Lou Foster Hughes, 47; a son, Marion, 22, a neighbor of the Hughes, Minnie Nixon, 69.

Another Hughes son, Milford Ernest, 7, was thrown clear on impact and escaped serious injury.

Grand Ridge is a small town 55 miles west of Tallahassee.

The car slammed into the diesel engine and was dragged about 100 feet before breaking loose. The car was demolished and the bodies were badly mangled.

Six Die As Fire Destroys
Hotel At Belfast, Maine

BELFAST, Maine (AP) — Fire starting in a kitchen destroyed the century-old Colonial Inn before dawn Sunday. Six persons died.

Four were guests and two were employees of the 35-room wooden hotel in the heart of Belfast's business district.

Three guests were injured, one critically. Several others escaped by leaping from windows.

The toll included two members of a vacationing Massachusetts family — Mrs. Arthur G. Donovan, about 23, of East Boston and her 3-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Donovan's husband, a letter carrier, and their 5½-year-old son, Richard, were hurt when Donovan dropped the boy two stories onto a projecting roof and jumped after him from a third-floor window.

Donovan was in critical condition at Waldo County Hospital with a possible fracture of the back. His son was burned and suffered a head injury.

Police Chief Oscar Horne said two other victims were identified as: Clifford Curtis, about 42, a Belfast electrician, and George Turner, about 35, cook at the hotel.

Horne said identities of the other two are reasonably certain but not positive.

He named them as night clerk Richard Moulton, 27, who apparently gave his life trying to arouse sleeping guests, and George Trumbull, about 70, a retired Belfast shoe worker.

All six died of suffocation, Medical Examiner John Caswell said, although their bodies were badly burned.

Fire Chief Henry Chaples estimated loss of the hotel at $100,000.

Soviets Present
Troika To Eaton

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government gave Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton a troika Sunday.

A troika is a chariot-type vehicle pulled by three horses. Eaton and his wife celebrated the occasion by riding it around the track at the Hippodrome before about 500 people.

Eaton said the Soviet government will send a special train along with his new troika to show Eaton's employees at Arcadia Farms near Cleveland how to feed and care for his gift horses.

Iceland Claims
British Beaten

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The first week of the fish war ended Sunday with Britain having caught nine Icelanders but relatively few fish.

"The British have lost the battle," said a Reykjavik Sunday newspaper headline which seemed to sum up Icelandic opinion.

The British navy still does not know what to do with the nine Icelanders they captured aboard the British trawler Northern Foam last week. The Icelanders were trying to arrest the skipper of the Northern Foam for fishing inside their new 12-mile territorial waters.

Britain says the 12-mile limit is illegal and refuses to recognize it. Naval frigates were sent inside the limit to protect trawlers fishing inside the new zone.

While the trawlers have been trying to fish, and with miserable results according to the Icelanders, the coast guard has been stepping up its war of nerves, as follows:

Icelandic gunboats dart at a trawler. Trawler skipper yells for help. When a frigate rushes to the rescue the Icelandic gunboat saucily sails away. Then in a few minutes there is another feat. This churns up the water and frightens away the fish, if not the British.

West Will Meet
Red Challenge,
President Says

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Eisenhower served notice Sunday that the West will hold firm against "an undiminished challenge" from the Communists in the Far East.

The President's statement, geared to the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Manila Pact, came as this country and Red China were moving toward ambassador-level talks aimed at settling the Formosa Strait crisis.

"Four years ago," Eisenhower said, "the United States joined with Australia, France, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand and the United Kingdom to form the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization. . . .

"I am convinced that our cooperative efforts will continue to be successful. In the face of an undiminished challenge, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization will vigorously maintain the protective shield necessary to the preservation of our common heritage of freedom."

This no-retreat statement came less than 24 hours after the White House announced it welcomed Red China's offer to resume negotiations with Warsaw, Poland, as the site.

In a companion statement at Washington, Secretary of State Dulles said, "International communism has not relaxed its threat to peace and stability in the Southeast Asia Treaty area."

"Recent events in the Taiwan (Formosa) area," Dulles said, "clearly demonstrate that the Chinese Communists have not renounced the use of force to serve their expansionist goals."

Chinese Reds Fail
To Challenge Test
Of 12-Mile Limit

ABOARD THE FLAGSHIP HELENA OFF QUEMOY (AP)—U.S. warships escorted a Nationalist supply convoy to besieged Quemoy Sunday and ran a Red Chinese blockade unchallenged.

In the first daring daytime convoy, cruisers and destroyers of the powerful U.S. 7th Fleet steamed inside Peiping's newly proclaimed 12-mile limit to help the Nationalists deliver ammunition to the island just a few miles off Red China's coast.

The blockade-running marked the start of a new phase of U.S. support to the Nationalists in holding the offshore islands.

The Communists failed to respond to the test of their blockade and defiance of the 12-mile limit. Red shore batteries remained silent as two Nationalist landing ships nudged onto the beaches of Quemoy and unloaded 300 tons of ammunition while the escorting U.S. destroyers ventured within seven miles of the mainland coast. Nor did the Reds send out any torpedo boats or planes.

Vice Adm. Wallace M. Beakley, commander of the fleet, termed the operation a success.

"It was the first time we have tried a daylight operation and there was no attempt to intercept it," he said.

Reds Halt Bombardment

The Reds announced Saturday they had voluntarily halted their bombardment of the Quemoy complex to give Nationalist soldiers time to reflect.

Beakley directed the escort operation from the bridge of his flagship, the cruiser Helena, which, along with the cruiser Columbus and six American destroyers, convoyed the Nationalist supply vessels across the Formosa Strait to Quemoy. The distance from Formosa to Quemoy is about 100 miles.

Also escorting the two ammunition-laden landing ships were two Nationalist patrol craft and two patrol frigates.

By nightfall the unloading of the ammunition had been completed.

Beakley also disclosed that American s's have been escorting Nationalist convoys to Quemoy at night since last Wednesday and said escorting would be a routine thing.

"This is the first time that U.S. forces in daylight have given escort and protection to the three-mile limit," he said.

The U.S. ships went in with orders not to cross the three-mile limit. None went closer than four miles off Quemoy and about seven from the China mainland, flag officers said.

Submarine Scare

As the U. S. ships patrolled the approaches to Quemoy for three hours the escort task force reported a submarine scare. The destroyer Collett signalled about noon she had picked up a suspected submarine contact but this later proved to be from wreckage of a sunken World War II ship on the shallow floor of Formosa Strait.

With the two Nationalist landing ships safely in Quemoy and preparing to pull out, the Helena left the task force and headed for the southern end of Formosa, where Beakley plans to observe joint amphibious exercises Monday of U.S. and Nationalist Marines and naval units.

The Columbus and the destroyers remained off Quemoy. The convoy operation, which could have ignited full-scale hostilities, went off with relative ease.

U.S.-supplied F84 and F86 jet fighters of the Nationalist air force provided air cover for the operation. Four U.S. carriers patrolled the waters east of Formosa, about 150 miles away but only 20 minutes flying time from here. They sent up planes during the morning hours of the operation but were told the aircraft were not needed.

Beakley said later the 45,000-ton carrier Midway had joined his 7th Fleet and that the 65,000-ton carrier Ranger would be added later this year. The arrival of the Midway brought to five the number of flattops now in the atomic-armed fleet.

The fleet is assigned the task of guarding Formosa from Red attack.

NAACP To Request Court Act In School Strike At Van Buren

VAN BUREN, Ark. (UPI)—NAACP Lawyer U. Simpson Tate said Sunday night that he will ask a U. S. District Court to intervene in the anti-integration strike of white students at Van Buren High School.

Sixty white students struck last week and succeeded in making 13 Negro students stay at home. One Negro gave up his attempt to attend the white school and left Van Buren.

Tate, southwest regional attorney for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, conferred in Van Buren Sunday with Clarence A. Laws, southwest area NAACP secretary.

He said he will file a suit Monday morning in U. S. District Judge John Miller's court in nearby Fort Smith.

Tate refused to say exactly what his suit will ask Judge Miller to do. He said its broad purpose will be to "prevent further interference" with integration at Van Buren.

Judge Miller is holding court this week in Harrison, Ark. Tate can file the suit, however, with Miller's clerk.

The school was deserted Sunday and Police Chief Voll Russell said he is going to do whatever he has to do to preserve peace. He has five patrolmen besides himself.

"We're all tired," he said.

A striking student said he understood that he and the others would have to apologize to the Negroes before they could get back into school themselves.

"We may apologize, but we don't have to mean it," he said.

There was an unconfirmed report that five Negroes may try to attend high school in Van Buren Monday, along with about 600 whites.

Three attended the first day of the strike, Friday, after an effigy-burning on the schoolyard, Negro attendance dropped to none.

Before Judge Miller left for Harrison Saturday, he said he didn't intend to depart from normal channels in handling any suit the NAACP brings up.

Baltimorean Shot Aboard Bay Steamer

CHEESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP)—A Baltimore man was shot and paralyzed from the neck down Sunday aboard a Chesapeake Bay excursion steamer.

There was a riot aboard the same vessel 10 days ago.

Delaware Hospital at Wilmington said the man shot, Calvin Stanley Jones, 26-year-old Negro of Baltimore, was in critical condition.

The hospital said a woman identified as Mrs. Rosalie Anders, 34-year-old Negro of Baltimore, also was taken to the hospital but declined treatment. She had a cut on the leg. State Police said she apparently was hit with a ricocheting bullet.

Police said they did not immediately determine the circumstances surrounding the shooting. State Troopers were dispatched to meet the boat at Tolchester, Md.

The shooting occurred aboard the Wilson Line steamer, the Bay Belle, in the C & D Canal at Chesapeake City, police said.

The hospital said the shooting reportedly occurred during an argument with another man but said it had no details.

Three Drown After Car Hits Washout

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Three Terre Haute teen-agers drowned Sunday when their car plunged off a Wabash river levee road into 20 feet of water and trapped them inside.

Three other youngsters swam to safety in the predawn mishap.

Killed in the crash were Jackie Eagle, 17; John Carter, 18, and Sherry Minor, 18.

The driver, Charles Jordan, 18, told police the car suddenly hit a washout concealed by heavy undergrowth. The washout was caused by last June's heavy floods and was not protected by a barricade.

Auto, Truck Collide; One Dead, 5 Hurt

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—One person was killed and five others were injured Sunday in a collision of a car and truck on rain-slicked U. S. 11, about one mile north of Hagerstown.

State police said the brakes locked on the northbound truck and it skidded across the center of the roadway, striking a southbound car carrying members of the Charles Edward Harmon family.

Harmon, 30, of Rt. 3, nearby Greencastle, was killed. Dr. Robert Ditto, acting coroner, pronounced him dead at the scene of a fractured skull, crushed chest, broken leg and multiple cuts and bruises.

The injured, in Washington County Hospital, were:

Anita Harmon, 25, the victim's wife, fractured left forearm, broken ribs and facial cuts. Her condition was fair.

Gary Harmon, 9, their son, possible chest, abdominal and head injuries, condition fair.

Terry Lee Harmon, 7, another son, acute shock and lacerated lip, fair condition.

Aaron Bittiger, 30, Hagerstown, the truck driver, acute shock and minor cuts and bruises.

Bittiger's brother, Paul W. Bittiger, 25, of Shippensburg, Pa., was treated for head cuts and released.

The artist Titian painted Christ and the Crown of Thorns when he was 95 years old.

GOP, Demos Match Victory Claims In Maine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans and Democrats matched victory claims Sunday on the outcome of Maine's last preview general election Monday.

Sens. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan) and George A. Smathers (D-Fla) expressed confidence in separate interviews that their party's candidate will win a Senate contest that could go far toward writing the script for congressional campaigns in other states.

Schoeppel, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he thinks GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne has an excellent chance of winning reelection.

"From all reports, the Republican factions that formerly were divided, now are cemented firmly behind Payne," Schoeppel said. "He'll be re-elected if we can get out the normal Republican vote and I think that's just what we will accomplish."

Smathers, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he looks for a close contest but is confident Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie will win it.

"Our polls indicate that Muskie will win," he said.

A very active man needs about 50 per cent more food than a very active woman.

Policeman Slain; Negro, 37, Held

SALISBURY (AP)—A Salisbury patrolman whose wife is expecting a baby in a few days, was shot and fatally wounded Saturday night while arresting a man suspected of passing a bum check.

Henry T. Stephens, 32, died on the operating table at Peninsula General Hospital about two and a half hours after the 9 p. m. shooting in an alley only 60 feet from police headquarters.

Held without bail on a charge of murder in the shooting was Johnny Brown, 37-year-old Negro. He was arrested about three blocks from the shooting scene by Patrolman Levin Kenny, 27, one of several officers who rushed from Police Headquarters when they heard the shooting.

Sgt. Dennis Selvey said police had been alerted to pick up a Negro who allegedly passed a bad check in a men's clothing store.

Patrolman Stevens picked up the suspect in an alley near police headquarters and was shot in the neck with a bullet from a .38 caliber pistol when he attempted to arrest the man.

'Fifi' Found To Be Baby Hurricane

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane hunters finally got a good look at Fifi Sunday and found the tropical storm a small one of barely hurricane force.

Fifi's top winds of 75 miles an hour menaced only scattered ships.

The Miami Weather Bureau deploying the South Atlantic for the time being. The storm by-passed the Leeward and Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico.

At 5 p. m. e.s.t., Fifi's "ill-defined" center was located about 250 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, near latitude 21.5 north, longitude 64.0 west. This many varieties of colorful flowers was about 1,100 miles east-southeast of Miami.

The baby hurricane was moving towards the northwest at about 15 miles an hour—a course and speed it was expected to maintain throughout the night.

The Miami Weather Bureau declined to say what section of the United States the storm would hit if it continued on its present course.

The name Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, means "new flower" and the city is famous for its many varieties of colorful flowers.

Baltimorean Shot Aboard Bay Steamer

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP)—A Baltimore man was shot and paralyzed from the neck down Sunday aboard a Chesapeake Bay excursion steamer.

There was a riot aboard the same vessel 10 days ago.

Delaware Hospital at Wilmington said the man shot, Calvin Stanley Jones, 26-year-old Negro of Baltimore, was in critical condition.

The hospital said a woman identified as Mrs. Rosalie Anders, 34-year-old Negro of Baltimore, also was taken to the hospital but declined treatment. She had a cut on the leg. State Police said she apparently was hit with a ricocheting bullet.

Police said they did not immediately determine the circumstances surrounding the shooting. State Troopers were dispatched to meet the boat at Tolchester, Md.

The shooting occurred aboard the Wilson Line steamer, the Bay Belle, in the C & D Canal at Chesapeake City, police said.

The hospital said the shooting reportedly occurred during an argument with another man but said it had no details.

Three Drown After Car Hits Washout

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Three Terre Haute teen-agers drowned Sunday when their car plunged off a Wabash river levee road into 20 feet of water and trapped them inside.

Three other youngsters swam to safety in the predawn mishap. Killed in the crash were Jackie Eagle, 17; John Carter, 18, and Sherry Minor, 18.

The driver, Charles Jordan, 18, told police the car suddenly hit a washout concealed by heavy rain caused by last June's heavy floods and was not protected by a barricade.

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—One person was killed and five others were injured Sunday in a collision of a car and truck on rain-slicked U. S. 11, about one mile north of Hagerstown.

State police said the brakes locked on the northbound truck and it skidded across the center of the roadway, striking a southbound car carrying members of the Charles Edward Harmon family.

Harmon, 30, of Rt. 3, nearby Greencastle, was killed. Dr. Robert Ditto, acting coroner, pronounced him dead at the scene of a fractured skull, crushed chest, broken leg and multiple cuts and bruises.

The injured, in Washington County Hospital, were:

Anita Harmon, 23, the victim's wife, fractured left forearm, broken ribs and facial cuts. Her condition was fair.

Gary Harmon, 9, their son, possible chest, abdominal and head injuries, condition fair.

Terry Lee Harmon, 7, another son, acute shock and lacerated lip, fair condition.

Aaron Bittinger, 30, Hagerstown, the truck driver, acute shock and minor cuts and bruises.

Bittinger's brother, Paul W. Bittinger, 25, of Shippensburg, Pa., was treated for head cuts and released.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans and Democrats matched victory claims Sunday on the outcome of Maine's last preview general election Monday.

Sens. Andrew F. Schoeppel (R-Kan.) and George A. Smathers (D-Fla.) expressed confidence in separate interviews that their party's candidate will win a Senate contest that could go far toward writing the script for congressional campaigns in other states.

Schoeppel, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he thinks GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne has an excellent chance of winning reelection.

"From all reports, the Republican factions that formerly were divided, now are cemented firmly behind Payne," Schoeppel said. "He'll be re-elected if we can get out the normal Republican vote and I think that's just what we will accomplish."

Smathers, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, said he looks for a close contest but is confident Democratic Gov. Edmund S. Muskie will win it.

"Our polls indicate that Muskie will win," he said.

SALISBURY (AP)—A Salisbury patrolman whose wife is expecting a baby in a few days, was shot and fatally wounded Saturday night while arresting a man suspected of passing a bum check.

Henry T. Stephens, 32, died on the operating table at Peninsula General Hospital about two and a half hours after the 9 p. m. shooting in an alley only 60 feet from police headquarters.

Held without bail on a charge of murder in the shooting was Johnny Brown, 37-year-old Negro. He was arrested about three blocks from the shooting scene by Patrolman Levin Kenny, 27, one of several officers who rushed from Police Headquarters when they heard the shooting.

Sgt. Dennis Selvey said police had been alerted to pick up a Negro who allegedly passed a bad check in a men's clothing store.

Patrolman Stevens picked up the suspect in an alley near police headquarters and was shot in the neck with a bullet from a .38 caliber pistol when he attempted to arrest the man.

MIAMI (UPI)—Hurricane hunters finally got a good look at Fifi Sunday and found the tropical storm a small one of barely hurricane force.

Fifi's top winds of 75 miles an hour menaced only scattered ships. The Miami Weather Bureau deploying the South Atlantic for the time being. The storm by-passed the Leeward and Virgin Islands if it continued on its present course.

At 5 p. m. e.s.t., Fifi's "ill-defined" center was located about 250 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico, near latitude 21.5 north, longitude 64.0 west. This many varieties of colorful flow was about 1,100 miles east-south-ers.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠KQ6♥Q854♦K93♣732

Your partner opens with one heart. What is your response?

A.—Two hearts. Counting the one point promotion for the queen of hearts, this hand appears to exceed the limits of a single raise which is 10 points. However, one point must be subtracted for the even distribution. Unless partner is able to act voluntarily, you need have no fears of missing a game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠K965♥QJ3♦862♣K102

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South
1 club 2 hearts 2 spades ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner's jump overall is preemptive, and he should not be given any inducement to take a save subsequently. Your values are primarily of a defensive nature and may be sufficient to stop an adverse game.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠K965♥QJ3♦862♣K102

Your partner has opened with one diamond. What is your response?

A.—One heart. Although an evenly balanced hand with 14 high card points normally calls for a direct bid of two no trump, this response should be avoided with a four card major. A superior contract in hearts may be available and the suit prospects should be investigated first.

♠K965♥QJ3♦862♣K102

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North
1 heart 2 hearts 2 spades 2 clubs

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. You've told your partner you have practically nothing when you bid two clubs. With your double stopper in hearts and the knowledge that your partner must have values in spades and diamonds in order to double, you must contract for a nine trick game rather than a game in clubs.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠K965♥QJ3♦862♣K102

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North
1 heart 2 hearts 2 spades 2 clubs

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. The hand is worth eight points — six points in high cards and two points for the two doubletons — which renders it a fairly good hand facing a take-out double.

A.—Two hearts. This is not a reverse in the true sense of the word for the bidding has made it somewhat awkward to probe for a heart fit. Partner's free bid of one no trump may readily include a four card heart suit. If not, and he returns to no trump, you may try clubs next.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠K82 ♥KQ98 ♦K52 ♣A106

Your partner has opened with one diamond. What is your response?

A.—One heart. Although an evenly balanced hand with 14 high card points normally calls for a direct bid of two no trump, this response should be avoided with a four card major. A superior contract in hearts may be available and the suit prospects should be investigated first.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠J ♥KJ3 ♦982 ♣Q96432

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North
1 heart Pass Pass 2 clubs Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. You've told your partner you have practically nothing when you bid two clubs. With your double stopper in hearts and the knowledge that your partner must have values in spades and diamonds in order to double, you must contract for a nine trick game rather than a game in clubs.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠7652 ♥Q10876 ♦109 ♣A3

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South
1 diamond Double 2 diamonds ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. The hand is worth eight points — six points in high cards and two points for the two doubletons — which renders it a fairly good hand facing a take-out double.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠7 ♥AK1097 ♦64 ♣QJ1074

North East South West
1 diamond Pass 1 heart Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. Despite the fact that your hand is not rich in high card points, it has a very attractive distribution and contains the proper single-ton. If partner happens to have the top clubs, there may be a chance for a slam. If partner does nothing drastic over your three club bid, a return to four hearts will be made on the next round.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠97 ♥96 ♦Q9753 ♣AKQ10

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 spade Pass 2 diamonds Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. You have very close to the equal of an opening bid. Partner has opened the bidding and jumped, which should suggest slam. The recommended call is to show the club suit. If partner merely returns to five diamonds, you may retire, but he should be given some information as to where your chief values lie. (Copyright 1958: The Chicago Tribune)

Why did you buy a house?

WHEN YOU decided to buy a house, you were probably thinking primarily of your wife and children.

You wanted to be sure that they would have a nice home to live in. Another concern was for the environment in which your children would grow up. You wanted good schools, play space, nice neighbors.

These are also good reasons for making sure that your family can keep it if something should happen to you.

Metropolitan offers several ways for you to make sure that your family will be left with a deed instead of a debt.

A Metropolitan Mortgage Term Plan is one way. It is designed to cover the usual type of home mortgage, which decreases as payments on the principal are made. The face amount of the insurance also decreases annually, so that the level premium is relatively inexpensive.

Another way, more satisfactory for most younger men, is a Metropolitan Whole Life policy. This is permanent insurance.

In addition to assuring that funds will be available for payment of the mortgage in the event of death, it also builds cash and loan values which furnish a nest egg to help take care of payments in case of illness or other emergency.

And because the face value does not decrease, it can be used for continuing protection or be fitted into your retirement plans after the mortgage is paid off.

Let your Metropolitan Representative help you choose a plan for your family situation and budget. He will be pleased to give you the facts about this insurance. So, why not call him today.

Freshman Week At College Is Under Way

Registration Starts Today

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Helen Baker Silverthorne, advisor to the Student Congress of State Teachers College at Frostburg, has announced that the student group is heading the freshmen week now in progress at the college.

Beginning yesterday at 2 p.m. registration of the students in the three residence halls, Frost, Allen and Simpson halls, began. Following the registration the students were introduced to resident hall life with party in each of the halls at 8 p.m.

A "Welcome Aboard" party for all freshmen was held in Allegheny Gymnasium. Miss Jane Bollinger was chairman of the affair and was assisted by the freshmen week committee.

Today at 9 a.m. the freshmen will hold their first assembly in Compton Hall auditorium at which time Oliver Wittig, president of Student Congress, will bring greetings and introduce President R. Bowen Hardesty to the group. President Hardesty will then introduce the administration staff and the freshmen faculty.

Following the assembly, the freshmen will have orientation conferences, pictures taken for the "Nemacolin" the college yearbook, introduction to extra-curricular activities, tour the library, and will be introduced to the health service.

Small groups will visit these various departments under the direction of big brothers and big sisters. Campus tours will also be conducted. The day's activities will be climaxed with a faculty-freshmen buffet supper in the college dining room. A movie "Death of a Salesman" will close the day's activities.

Announce Wedding

OAKLAND—Miss Shirley Weyant, daughter of Mrs. Beulah Weyant and the late Kenneth Weyant, of Johnstown, Pa., became the bride of James Edgar Lemmert, Johnstown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lemmert, of Oakland, on Friday evening August 15.

The double ring ceremony was performed in Beulah Evangelical United Brethren Church, Johnstown, by Rev. George Biggs.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ned Weyant, of Annapolis. Miss Barbara Grove was maid of honor and Preston Grove served as best man. Ushers were Paul Schmer and Bud Singer. Miss Janet Felton was vocalist and Mrs. Richard Hughes served as organist.

A reception followed in the church social rooms. Following a honeymoon at Deep Creek Lake the couple is residing at their new residence at 102 Mercedes Street, Johnstown.

Prior to going to Johnstown Mr. Lemmert was a pharmacist at LaVale Drug store in LaVale, and the Ford Drug stores in Cumberland.

Golden Gifts Report Read

PIEDMONT — Reports were given by workers of the Tri-Towns Golden Gifts Division of the County United Fund held at a dinner meeting at the St. Ann's Hotel, with Kenneth E. Sheetz, chairman, presiding.

Although some of the pledges and gifts were not as large as had been anticipated Winfield Adam, Cumberland, executive director of the CUF, was hopeful of a successful campaign as some contributions were larger than last year.

Raymond C. Hudson, general chairman of the CUF for the Tri-Towns, also spoke.

The weekly dinners being held by the Golden Gifts workers are a "Dutch treat" affair and another one will be held at the same place Thursday at 6 p.m.

Boy Scout Troop 42 Plans Board Of Review

FROSTBURG — Troop 42, Boy Scouts, sponsored by First Methodist Church, will hold a board of review Tuesday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

September 16, a court of honor and family picnic will be held at Ward's cabin, Tollgate Road, Big Savage Mountain, beginning at 6 p.m.

State Farm Queen Gets Welcome

Miss Sue Hershberger, 16-year-old Grantsville girl who was crowned Maryland's Farm Queen last week at the Timonium State Fair, received a royal welcome Saturday night when she returned home. She received a number of gifts and was the guest of honor for a motorcade to Grantsville from Meadow Mountain. There also was a parade through the main street of the northern Garrett County town. In the picture Miss Hershberger, riding in a convertible automobile, is shown receiving greetings from Paul Muha, who served as chairman of the welcoming committee. Mr. Muha also is principal of Northern High School which Miss Hershberger attends. Looking on are Audrey Edwards and Helen Hardesty, who also were members of the welcoming committee. Miss Hershberger was presented a three-piece set of luggage.

New W.Va. Unit Will Assume Duties Today

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Members of the newly named West Virginia Mine Inspectors Examining Board and the Coal Mine Safety Board of Review will be sworn in Monday by Secretary of State Helen Holt.

The four members of the examining board are United Mine Workers District 17 president Raymond Lewis of Charleston, Joe L. McQuade of Richwood, R. F. Hayhurst of Morgantown and H. E. Mauch of Coalwood, McDowell County.

The four-member review board includes Frank Williams Sr., Buckhannon; Adam Crawford, Mallory, Logan County; Cecil J. Urbanik, Fairmont, UMW District 31 president, and Robert W. Stanley, Red Star, Fayette County.

G. R. Spindler, head of the West Virginia University Mines School, is chairman of both boards included in the new mine safety law enacted by the 1958 Legislature.

Elkins Woman's Death Probed

ELKINS, W. Va. (UPI)—Randolph County prosecutor Robert Maxwell said Sunday he would review Monday findings of an investigation and autopsy in the death of an Elkins resident to determine if any further action should be taken.

Mildred E. Hedrick, 49, was found dead in her apartment here Friday. Maxwell withheld any details of the incidents leading to the death.

Polio Vaccine Clinic At Keyser Tuesday

KEYSER — The Mineral County Health Department announces that a Polio Clinic will be conducted Tuesday, September 16, between the hours of 8 and 9 a.m. in the Mineral County Court House.

Persons under 20 years of age and expectant mothers are eligible to receive the vaccine.

Immunizations are given as follows: First two are given four weeks apart and the third or booster dose is given seven months later.

Bruce High Sends Tri-Hi-Y Delegates

During the sessions the different phases of leadership were stressed.

Representing Bruce were Elaine Anta, president; Patty Kelley, vice president; Betty Lou Pike, secretary; Bernice Donovan, treasurer; Cynthia Daniels, chaplain; Norma Zais, historian and Patti Holt, also a member.

Club Will Meet

FROSTBURG—The Midlothian Homemakers will meet today at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Raymond Kennell, Midlothian. Mrs. Thomas Simmons will preside. Roll call will be answered with each member stating "what we most enjoy doing as a family."

Garrett County Schools Enroll 4,696 Students

OAKLAND — Garrett County's 17 elementary schools and two high schools opened with an enrollment of 4,696 students, a gain of 100 over the first day enrollment of a year ago, according to Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

Most of the increases were in the Oakland area and at the new Route 40 and Yoder schools, he said. Slight decreases were recorded at Kitzmiller and Friendsville.

He said the total enrollment is expected to reach 4,750 by the end of this week when all children of school age in the county are expected to enroll.

Southern High opened its doors to 1,146 on opening day, according to Kenneth Johns, principal. Northern High had an enrollment of 759, it was announced by Paul Muha, principal. Last year's opening day figure at Southern totaled 1,121. Johns said enrollment was expected to top 1,150.

He said Grade Ten showed the largest enrollment, with 226 pupils. Grade Seven was second with 223. Providing there are no dropouts in the senior class, this will be one of the largest classes to graduate from the local school. There are 145 seniors.

At Northern High Muha released the following figures for the six grades: Seventh, 143; Eighth, 129; Ninth, 120; Tenth, 129; Eleventh, 126; Twelfth, 112.

At the opening assembly program comments were made by Muha, Rev. William E. Carlson, Leslie Savage, representing the bus drivers; Mrs. Helen Harmon, cafeteria manager; Ralph Beachley, vice principal, and Miss Patty McKenzie, of the Student Council. Also on the platform for the assembly were George Edwards, board of education member; C. O. Bender, president of the PTA; Mrs. Irva Mickey, president of the County Council of Parents and Teachers; Darrell Malone, guidance counselor; Louis Harmon, custodian, and Melvin Kessner, librarian.

Enrollments by schools follow:

Southern High, 1,146; Northern High, 759; Swanton, 58; North Glade, 36; Friendsville, 260; Grantsville, 344; Yoder, 79; Bloomington, 85; Accident, 249; Swan Meadow, 41; Red House, 140; Route 40, 187; Deer Park, 51; Bittering, 21; Kitzmiller, 140; Center Street, 379; Crellin, 115; Loch Lynn, 119; Dennett Road, 387.

Enrollment at St. Peter's Parochial School here the opening day was 113, 11 more than the previous year.

"Thousands of children are now being exposed to traffic in traveling to and from school. In order that we protect them we must constantly be on the alert to dangers involved. You are directed to spend as much time as possible patrolling the areas traversed by school buses and in school zones."

The Department of Public Safety superintendent, noting the first full week of the new school year begins Monday, said instructions to this effect had been sent to all State Police posts in the state.

The message read in part: "Thousands of children are now being exposed to traffic in traveling to and from school. Bloodmobile Arranges Visit To Piedmont

Will Be There Tuesday Afternoon

PIEDMONT — The Johnstown Pa. Bloodmobile of the American Red Cross will pay its quarterly visit to the Tri-Towns Tuesday. It will be at the Piedmont Presbyterian Church from 12 noon to 6 p.m., jointly sponsored by the Westernport-Luke Branch and Piedmont Chapter of Red Cross.

Mrs. Paul Cueva and Mrs. Carleton Bell are co-chairmen of the blood program.

Mrs. Bernadine Appel will serve as donor recruiter in the absence of Mrs. Katherine Ledlow. Mrs. Joseph Alongi is co-chairman.

Mrs. Bell is scheduling doctors for the afternoon. Nurses will include Mrs. Marian Kalbaugh, Mrs. James Kelly, Mrs. Bruce Sanborn, Mrs. Anderson Fazenbaker and Mrs. Milton McIntyre.

Typists will be Mrs. Marian Daniels, Mrs. Hilda Clark, Miss Ann Kelley and Miss Frances Ott.

Mrs. Ruth High, chairman of the canteen, will be assisted by Mrs. Anita Lutman, Mrs. Angela Stewart, Mrs. Ruby Ack and Miss Isabelle Villano.

Once again an appeal is being made for blood donors in order that free blood may be available when needed by our families, neighbors and friends. In the past three months, 70 pints of blood collected here have been used by area residents.

An effort is being made to schedule area veterans so that the Johnstown center can continue to supply VA hospitals with blood.

Free parking will be available to all blood donors. If a donor receives a parking ticket, it should be taken to the church and be stamped by Mrs. Bell, and it will be taken care of.

Freshman Week At College Is Under Way

Registration Starts Today

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Helen Baker Silverthorne, advisor to the Student Congress of State Teachers College at Frostburg, has announced that the student body is heading the freshmen week now in progress at the college.

Beginning yesterday at 2 p.m., registration of the students in the three residence halls, Frost, Allen and Simpson halls, began. Following the registration the students were introduced to resident hall life with party in each of the halls at 8 p.m.

A "Welcome Aboard" party for all freshmen was held in Allegany Gymnasium. Miss Jane Bollinger was chairman of the affair and was assisted by the freshmen week committee.

Today at 9 a.m. the freshmen will hold their first assembly in Compton Hall auditorium at which time Oliver Witting, president of Student Congress, will bring greetings and introduce President R. Bowen Hardesty to the group. President Hardesty will then introduce the administration staff and the freshmen faculty.

Following the assembly, the freshmen will have orientation conferences, pictures taken for the "Nemacolin" the college yearbook, introduction to extra-curricular activities, tour the library, and will be introduced to the health service.

Small groups will visit these various departments under the direction of big brothers and big sisters. Campus tours will also be conducted. The day's activities will be climaxed with a faculty-freshmen buffet supper in the college dining room. A movie "Death of a Salesman" will close the day's activities.

Announce Wedding

OAKLAND—Miss Shirley Weyant, daughter of Mrs. Beulah Weyant and the late Kenneth Weyant, of Johnstown, Pa., became the bride of James Edgar Lemmert, Johnstown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lemmert, of Oakland, on Friday evening August 15.

The double ring ceremony was performed in Beulah Evangelical United Brethren Church, Johnstown, by Rev. George Biggs.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ned Weyant, of Annapolis. Miss Barbara Grove was maid of honor and Preston Grove served as best man. Ushers were Paul Schermer and Bud Singer. Miss Janet Felton was vocalist and Mrs. Richard Hughes served as organist.

A reception followed in the church social rooms. Following a honeymoon at Deep Creek Lake the couple is residing at their new residence at 102 Marcedas Street, Johnstown.

Prior to going to Johnstown Mr. Lemmert was a pharmacist at LaVale Drug store in LaVale, and the Ford Drug stores in Cumberland.

Golden Gifts Report Read

PIEDMONT — Reports were given by workers of the Tri-Towns Golden Gifts Division of the County United Fund held at a dinner meeting at the St. Ann's Hotel, with Kenneth E. Sheetz, chairman, presiding.

Although some of the pledges and gifts were not as large as had been anticipated Winfield Adam, Cumberland, executive director of the CUF, was hopeful of a successful campaign as some contributions were larger than last year.

Raymond C. Hudson, general chairman of the CUF for the Tri-Towns, also spoke.

The weekly dinners being held by the Golden Gifts workers are a "Dutch treat" affair and another one will be held at the same place Thursday at 6 p.m.

Garrett County Schools Enroll 4,696 Students

OAKLAND — Garrett County's 17 elementary schools and two high schools opened with an enrollment of 4,696 students, a gain of 100 over the first day enrollment of a year ago, according to Willard L. Hawkins, county superintendent of schools.

Most of the increases were in the Oakland area and at the new Route 40 and Yoder schools, he said. Slight decreases were recorded at Kitzmiller and Friendsville.

He said the total enrollment is expected to reach 4,750 by the end of this week when all children of school age in the county are expected to enroll.

Southern High opened its doors to 1,146 on opening day, according to Kenneth Johns, principal. Northern High had an enrollment of 739, it was announced by Paul Muha, principal. Last year's opening day figure at Southern totaled 1,121. Johns said enrollment was expected to top 1,150.

He said Grade Ten showed the largest enrollment, with 226 pupils. Grade Seven was second with 223. Providing there are no dropouts in the senior class, this will be one of the largest classes to graduate from the local school. There are 145 seniors.

At Northern High Muha released the following figures for the six grades: Seventh, 143; Eighth, 129; Ninth, 120; Tenth, 129; Eleventh, 126; Twelfth, 112.

At the opening assembly program comments were made by Muha, Rev. William E. Carlson, Leslie Savage, representing the bus drivers; Mrs. Helen Harmon, cafeteria manager; Ralph Beachley, vice principal; and Miss Patty McKenzie, of the Student Council. Also on the platform for the assembly were

WVU To Enroll 1,300 Students As New Fresh

Other Colleges Begin Activities

United Press International One of the largest contingents of high school graduates ever to enroll in West Virginia colleges and the university arrived at the various schools Sunday.

College officials predicted last month after close looks at pre-school enrollment there would be an increase in the number of freshmen students this fall.

At West Virginia University some 1,300 students arrived today to begin week-long freshmen week activities Monday.

Another 600 first-year students arrived at Huntington to get ready for similar activities on the campus of Marshall College.

West Virginia University and Marshall are West Virginia's two largest institutions of higher learning.

Most other colleges, with possible exception of some private schools, opened their doors to first-year students this weekend.

Freshmen week activities will prevail most of the week at all of the institutions. Upper classes will enroll during the final days of the week and class room work gets underway full-scale Sept. 15.

Don't Forget The Middle East

Events will reveal what is to come in the area between Red China and Formosa. One guess in Washington is that the whole situation was stirred up by Khrushchev's proposal to Mao: "Let's you and him fight."

Moscow's strategy probably is to create a diversion to cover maneuvers in the Middle East—the real goal of the Soviet Union. If Moscow can gain a military foothold there, it will drive a wedge between the free world and communism.

It is plausible to suppose that Khrushchev and Mao, at their recent meeting, agreed to Red China's winning of an island or two as a feeler. If the United States offered no resistance, it would continue to push until there was a reaction from Uncle Sam.

Russia, too, needs some diversion. There are home front weaknesses and it may not be clear to some Russians what their own country, the great "peace" lover, is doing agitating in the Middle East. They can understand their buddy, Mao, pushing the "capitalists" out of China waters.

But the fact cannot be ignored that Russia is plotting day and night for a foothold in the Middle East that can be expanded into complete domination. That is the next step in communism's drive for world rule.

So whatever transpires in the China Sea should not draw a veil over the Middle East. That is where the big events of a belligerent nature are most likely to happen—not in the Far East.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Cashier's Checks

A justifiable complaint against Congressional Committees is that they rarely complete a task which they set out to do. Either the committee runs out of money or interest or the membership changes, or perhaps the particular subject has ceased to be of public interest.

For instance, the investigation of Mr. Goldfine was a design to embarrass Sherman Adams and to force his resignation. It had nothing to do with taxes. The instigator was John Fox who had had financial dealings with Goldfine and who dislikes him. During this investigation, it was discovered that over a number of years, Goldfine withdrew cashier's or bank checks which he did not cash and some of which have never been cashed. Unquestionably the money was Goldfine's and if he chose to keep such huge sums in this unorthodox form in a safe deposit box or a shoe box or in his vest pocket that is his prerogative.

Nevertheless, it ought to be of some interest to the Internal Revenue Service of the Treasury which will bother an ordinary citizen if he is a few dollars out of line, what this unorthodox procedure is, how it benefits the man who pursues it, what it does for him tax-wise and is it better than just holding on to a great deal of cash.

So far as the public knows, the Congressional investigation of Goldfine and his checks has never been completed. He never explained why he withdrew the checks; he never explained why they remained uncashed. This form of check is as good as cash money, only a small number of them do not take as much room as the amount of cash they represent.

The entire course of the McClellan investigation shows that certain labor leaders steal cash money. This money disappears, although the amounts are huge. Obviously, there is some kind of split up. Nevertheless, there is considerable cash on hand that is taken out of circulation and that must get back into circulation if it is to have any value to those who have it. It has to be invested in stocks or real estate or enterprises and it has to be done in such a manner that the investments are legitimate.

This undoubtedly requires the assistance of an accountant and a lawyer and needs careful handling. The money is probably taken in a briefcase or a suitcase to Switzerland or to Panama or to some other tax haven. There it is placed in an anonymous account for investment in the United States. The investment is amalgamated with similar accounts, some of which are American; others European, Asiatic or African. Whatever purchases are made in the United States are in the name of an alien bank, an alien nominee or an alien corporation.

A withholding tax of 52 per cent should be collected on the profits earned but probably is not, as this gets involved in all sorts of reciprocal trade agreements and other devices. The fact is that the honest United States citizen who pays his taxes is gypped because he has to pay more as these thieves evade their taxes. What they fail to pay is charged to the honest citizen.

This is a subject that Congress is afraid to touch with a 10-foot pole. Everytime somebody brings it up, the smart members duck, because apparently very important persons and interests are involved who know how to bring pressure to bear on Washington officialdom.

The Whaley-Eaton Service recently said: "... Tax liabilities pyramid so fast on both the individual and the corporation as obviously to encourage various sharp practices."

Suppose the Treasury, on the other hand, were to recognize that it is the policy of the Administration to encourage Americans to invest money abroad. It would therefore establish a device which would give American money abroad an incentive and advantage. Such an incentive and advantage can only relate themselves to taxes. An American company functioning abroad should get an exceptional tax benefit if the risk taken has some national value. This already obtains in the Pakistani treaty which is one of the most unorthodox ever negotiated and signed by the United States since the extraterritorial treaties with Turkey and China were abrogated.

At any rate, something constructive needs to be done to plug up an ugly tax loophole—one that seems to be practised with pride by many distinguished persons who do not regard themselves as thieves.

Constitutional Crisis Seen Shaping Up For America

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A constitutional crisis of major proportions is shaping up for America. It involves far more than the issue of attendance in mixed schools. It involves the broader question of whether the Supreme Court of the United States may suddenly declare that "equal protection of the laws" under the Fourteenth Amendment requires uniformity throughout the nation on all laws affecting citizens generally.

This could mean that the divorce laws of all the states must be the same, income-tax laws must be the same, laws regulating labor unions and corporations, respectively, must be the same, and laws must be uniform throughout the country with regard to all kinds of licenses and privileges which citizens of different states may desire to obtain or enjoy.

Few people realize the potential scope of the Fourteenth Amendment and its far-reaching impact if the present Supreme Court continues its current program of knocking down state laws that it considers socially or psychologically harmful or as involving discrimination between citizens in any field of endeavor.

Many millions of Americans undoubtedly feel that they are being discriminated against because they pay higher taxes to their own state than do citizens elsewhere. Many citizens object to the fact that, although they do business across state lines, they must pay local taxes in varying amounts to different states and cities where they sell their wares. If the Fourteenth Amendment means that no state shall deny "equal protection of the laws" to any citizen, the principle could apply as between citizens who live in different states instead of merely as between citizens of a single state.

The theory could be carried to the point where economic inequality can be condemned by the Supreme Court as readily as racial or social inequalities, under the doctrine that it is an obligation of government to guarantee equality as between citizens.

There would be a condition of near chaos in America if the Supreme Court invalidated, for instance, state laws on divorce. Husbands could stop paying alimony. Persons who had remarried in one state believing that they were legally divorced in another state could be made subject to various kinds of legal suits.

Yet, while such action may not be imminent, the stark fact is that the Supreme Court has set itself up as having the right to disregard at any moment all legal precedents of the past and to rule on what it believes is socially or psychologically desirable. Today the slogan of the court, in effect is that the end justifies the means. This has been taken up far and wide across the nation by many people in an emotional crusade in support of the court's decisions. The public is being told repeatedly that everything the Supreme Court says is the "law of the land." Critics say the opposite — that a Supreme Court decision is the "law of the case" and can be reversed at any time, and that it merely covers the parties to the particular case and is not necessarily binding on anybody else. This fact has not sunk in as yet generally, though most lawyers know it has always been true.

The latest challenge to the idea that the school desegregation decisions are the "law of the land" in the sense that they actually can compel integration in every state has come from Governor Almond of Virginia. Himself a former state Attorney General and an able lawyer, Mr. Almond made a sensational statement on Thursday when he said:

"No decision of the Supreme Court of the United States or any subordinate Federal Court requires or can require this state or any of its political subdivisions to operate any public school, whether integrated or not. ... "No Federal Court is vested

American Public Has Right To Know Who Killed School Construction Bill

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — As American school children go back to overcrowded classrooms, the American public has a right to know what happened in two closed-door Congressional meetings which helped to set back education in the United States.

There have been a lot of headlines over the achievements and failures of the 85th Congress. But as far as the long-range history of the United States is concerned, the greatest failures took place in two secret sessions of the House Education and Labor Committee, one of which gutted the school construction bill; the other in a House-Senate conference which killed scholarships from the science education bill.

The votes were taken behind closed doors so the voters who elect Congressmen would not know about them. They were taken at a time when a commission of distinguished American educators had just come back from Russia to report amazing progress in Russian schools.

First setback for education — Here is what happened when the Eisenhower-endorsed school construction bill came up for a vote in the House Education and Labor Committee: Every Republican had voted against it. Eisenhower had endorsed the bill only one year before, though he did not repeat the endorsement this year. Taking this as their cue, all Republicans voted "no" — even though Ike's Commissioner of Education was seriously alarmed over Russia's amazing new schoolhouses.

Ike Wrote The Bill

Republican Carroll Kearns of Pennsylvania, a former school-teacher, was among those who voted "no." Another "no" voter, Republican Harry Haskell of Delaware, baffled his colleagues by admitting that he had helped to draft a school-aid bill similar to the one he now opposed.

Haskell revealed that before his election to Congress in 1956 he had worked on the legislation while he was an assistant to Oveta Culp Hobby, former Secretary of Health and Education. Squirming uneasily in his chair, he explained his current opposition on the ground that the bill "needed more study."

"How many more hearings do you want?" angrily inquired Democrat Lee Metcalf of Montana. "This bill already has received exhaustive study. It is now so late in the session that if we send it back to subcommittee for further study, as you suggest, it will kill the chances for action at this session of Congress. That's what some of you fellows really want, I guess."

"Look at these voluminous hearings," Metcalf added, waving a transcript containing more than 1,000 pages of testimony taken by the House committee last year. Democrats Frank Thompson of New Jersey and Stewart Udall of Arizona also flourished copies of the hearings at Haskell and his GOP cohorts.

"These arguments about 'further study' and your charges that we Democrats are trying to railroad action on aid to schools are sheer sophistry," Thompson challenged the Republicans. "You are struggling as hard as I have ever seen anyone struggle to rationalize an untenable position. You were for this bill last year when President Eisenhower said he wanted it. Now you are trying to wiggle out because the President is no longer for it."

"But the need for school construction is even greater now than it was last year. The shortage of classrooms has increased. I want to do something about it. This is the President's own bill, but as a Democrat I am supporting it to relieve the serious shortage of classrooms."

"Times have changed since last year," argued Republican Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey. "For one thing, we are in a business recession and this, of course, must be considered in government spending for schools or any other purpose."

"The fact that we are in a recession is all the more reason why we should put through a school-aid bill as fast as possible," shot back Metcalf. "School construction will mean more jobs. Schools can be built rapidly without much of a lag in planning. Employment will be helped both in the construction trades and in industries that provide the materials for schools.

On the final vote, all the Republicans lined up with two southern Democrats—Barden of North Carolina and Landrum of Georgia—to decree that nothing be done about crowded classrooms for American children.

Killing Scholarships

Second setback for education—Here is what happened when conferees from both Senate and House met behind closed doors to reconcile their differences over space-age education. The Senators—Hill of Alabama, Smith of New Jersey, Allott of Colorado and Yarborough of Texas—fought hard to keep free scholarships in the bill.

"We are only asking for scholarships of $250 a year," pleaded Senator Smith, a former Princeton professor. "Small as it is, it will still be an incentive to talented students to take up the tougher, scientific courses. The award would reflect honor, in addition to giving some financial help to future scientists."

But House conferees argued that the House had voted decisively against any money for student grants, and the temper of the House was such that the entire bill would be killed if they tried to restore scholarships, even for only $250. So, after much debate, Senator Hill finally suggested to his Senate colleagues: "Let's take it out. We're beating our heads against a stone wall."

In the end, New York's GOP Congressman Gwinn refused to sign the conferees' report on the ground that he was against all forms of Federal aid to education.

Gwinn made it plain that he didn't like any part of the bill, including the scholarship proposal, and spent his time spreading propaganda for his pet lobby, the ultra-right wing Committee on Constitutional Government. He repeatedly referred to the lobby's anti-Federal aid book, written by Roger Freeman.

"I don't believe I have seen that book," remarked Senator Hill.

"Well, I just happen to have a few extra copies with me," said Gwinn. There were broad smiles as he fished into a briefcase and produced four copies, handing them out to Senators Hill, Smith, Allott and Yarborough.

Note—While Gwinn opposes using any taxpayers' money to help educate the children of the nation, he never hesitates to use it to spread his own propaganda. On one occasion he spent $27,000 of the taxpayers' money sending out 900,000 letters against public housing, rent control, and aid to education.

Sometimes the loser wins...

The two young men met on the ship. It was a big three-master and it headed out of Queenstown for the United States. They stood at the rail and saw the green headlands of Ireland fade into the blue of the Atlantic. There was, they knew, a great civil war going on in the new country, but they wanted no part of it.

Day after day, the big ship creaked as it headed into the long summer groundswell. They spoke, shyly at first, and then with confidence. Quigley said he wanted to study to be a priest. McDermott swallowed. "That's strange," he said. "I have the same ambition."

Like two Englishmen who aspire to be ministers, or two Jews who want to be rabbis, these young men were attracted by the freedom of faith permitted in America. "The trouble of it is," said McDermott softly, "that it is not easy to get enough education without money."

"Indeed," said Quigley, "the same thought crossed me mind many times." They talked about it. The more they talked, the more certain they became that both of them could not get sufficient education to enter a seminary. It was McDermott who thought of the coin.

"One could get a job," he suggested softly, "and he could work to support the other one. 'Twould be a great act of faith on the part of the loser."

Quigley thought about it. The idea was sound, even though he didn't know the stranger well.

"Aye," he said, "we'll do it right now." McDermott took a polished shilling from his pocket. It spun like moon spangles over the sea and Quigley called the toss: "Heads." It rolled on the deck and died with the tail up.

Young Quigley had lost his heart's desire before he was a week out of Ireland. "I'll get a position somewhere," he said, "and I'll keep in touch with you. A much as I can afford is what you'll be getting."

The disappointment was enormous. God had called the coin and had selected McDermott. Quigley resigned himself to it. He got a job in New York and he sent money to McDermott. The young loser moved west to Pittsburgh and got a job there. He sent money to young McDermott every week. He prospered. In time, Quigley bought his own green grocery and bought a house. Always, money was sent to

McDermott. First, there was a little. Then a little more. Soon, seminarian McDermott had nothing to worry about. His studies were good and he advanced. He spent his vacations with Quigley and the two talked of Ireland and the beloved hearts they missed.

Years, later, Quigley met a young lady. He fell in love. When they married, she came to the house he had bought and she made a home of it. There were several children and, when Father McDermott stopped by, all they knew was that he was a good friend to their father.

In time, the visits stopped. "Father's duties carried him far from Pittsburgh. The years ticked slowly on. Quigley's oldest daughter said one day that she wanted to study to be a nun. The father was pleasantly surprised. Later, his favorite son said that he wanted to study to be a priest. Both children studied. Both made it.

The boy became a Carmelite. The girl became a Sister of Charity. This, to the old man, was a great and humbling triumph. When his wife died, he had no one at home to worry about. So he asked the Carmelites if he couldn't — at his advanced age — become a Brother. They thought about it and they said yes.

And now, the boy who lost the toss, lived out his declining years in a rectory. He was happy. His life's work was done. Instead of devoting his solitary energy to God, there were three Quigleys working for His greater honor and glory.

I sat one sunny afternoon in the rectory of St. Anastasia Church in Teaneck, New Jersey. Father Sylvester Quigley told the story to me. The 50th anniversary of his priesthood was approaching and he was reminiscing.

"It isn't much," he said. We talked about his sister, who later became Reverend Mother Benita, of the Sisters of Charity. It's just the story of a poor boy who lost the toss of a coin."

"Strange," I said, "that you should keep saying that he lost."

No matter where the Giants finish the San Francisco fans saw more than a hotel detective with protruding eyeballs.

At this writing their team has made 19 last-inning finishes that smoked the ham.

Nineteen times the Giants trailed in the ninth and 19 times they pulled the fat out of the picnic barbecue.

The garrison finish is sport's biggest kick in horse racing, football, fighting, yachting, baseball and the four-jumper in cracker-barrel checkers.

But like Silky Sullivan the Giants couldn't do it in the East.

Nevertheloose, baseball is played for the nourishment of small boys in their home towns. And the San Francisco tads got more than their share.

It's the mark of the champion to throw that last punch even if it only knocks out the referee.

Some Cases Of 'Deafness' Caused By Ear Wax

coming deaf. His fellow workers laughed at his "What cha say?" His wife kept insisting that he get a hearing aid. He finally was convinced and spent a week's wages on it but the device "didn't help a bit."

I asked him if he knew what had made him hard of hearing, and he shrugged his shoulders. It developed that he never had been to a physician. Up to this point, all the medical advice received had been from friends and relatives.

I reached for the otoscope, flipped on the light with my thumb, and looked into the ear canals. Both were filled with wax. I began to remove the wax and he exclaimed suddenly, "I can hear." He was sheepish but a new man within 10 minutes.

"How silly of me not to think of wax," he said. "After all, I make a living cleaning out drains when sinks plug up."

Every physician has had this experience. Impacted wax is not the only cause of deafness but is considered first. Looking into the ear canals is the easiest of all medical examinations, and removal of excess wax is neither difficult nor painful. The new ear drops will make it easier by softening and loosening the material.

The external ear canal is 1 1/4 inches long but only the outer third contains hair follicles and wax producing glands. Wax serves a purpose in keeping the parts clean and lubricated. Trouble comes only when it accumulates, hardens, and blocks the passageway.

Rudyard Kipling, particularly outraged by autograph hounds, was reading peacefully in his garden in England one day, when a neighbor barged in with an American who announced "she could never go home and face her husband without shaking the hand of the immortal Rudyard Kipling." Then she eyed the author-poet, noting he had on an old, thread-bare suit, was unkempt and—scowling darkly. "I never dreamed," she quavered, "that you were going to look like this."

"I don't look like this!" thundered Kipling. "This is one of my off-days. You've caught me being pestered by imbecilic celebrity chasers!"

When Oscar Wilde was sentenced to prison, he was led out

Don't Forget The Middle East

Events will reveal what is to come in the area between Red China and Formosa. One guess in Washington is that the whole situation was stirred up by Khrushchev's proposal to Mao: "Let's you and him fight."

Moscow's strategy probably is to create a diversion to cover maneuvers in the Middle East—the real goal of the Soviet Union. If Moscow can gain a military foothold there, it will drive a wedge between the free world and communism.

It is plausible to suppose that Khrushchev and Mao, at their recent meeting, agreed to Red China's winning of an island or two as a feeler. If the United States offered no resistance, it would continue to push until there was a reaction from Uncle Sam.

Russia, too, needs some diversion. There are home front weaknesses and it may not be clear to some Russians what their own country, the great "peace" lover, is doing agitating in the Middle East. They can understand their buddy, Mao, pushing the "capitalists" out of China waters.

But the fact cannot be ignored that Russia is plotting day and night for a foothold in the Middle East that can be expanded into complete domination. That is the next step in communism's drive for world rule.

So whatever transpires in the China Sea should not draw a veil over the Middle East. That is where the big events of a belligerent nature are most likely to happen—not in the Far East.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Cashier's Checks

A justifiable complaint against Congressional Committees is that they rarely complete a task which they set out to do. Either the committee runs out of money or interest or the membership changes, or perhaps the particular subject has ceased to be of public interest.

For instance, the investigation of Mr. Goldfine was a design to embarrass Sherman Adams and to force his resignation. It had nothing to do with taxes. The instigator was John Fox who had had financial dealings with Goldfine and who dislikes him. During this investigation, it was discovered that over a number of years, Goldfine withdrew cashier's or bank checks which he did not cash and some of which have never been cashed. Unquestionably the money was Goldfine's and if he chose to keep such huge sums in this unorthodox form in a safe deposit box or a shoe box or in his vest pocket that is his prerogative.

Nevertheless, it ought to be of some interest to the Internal Revenue Service of the Treasury which will bother an ordinary citizen if he is a few dollars out of line, what this unorthodox procedure is, how it benefits the man who pursues it, what it does for him tax-wise and is it better than just holding on to a great deal of cash.

So far as the public knows, the Congressional investigation of Goldfine and his checks has never been completed. He never explained why he withdrew the checks; he never explained why they remained uncashed. This form of check is as good as cash money, only a small number of them do not take as much room as the amount of cash they represent.

The entire course of the McClellan investigation shows that certain larval leaders steal cash money. This money disappears, although the amounts are huge. Obviously, there is some kind of split up. Nevertheless, there is considerable cash on hand that is taken out of circulation and that must get back into circulation if it is to have any value to those who have it. It has to be invested in stocks or real estate or enterprises and it has to be done in such a manner that the investments are legitimate.

This undoubtedly requires the assistance of an accountant and a lawyer and needs careful handling. The money is probably taken in a briefcase or a suitcase to Switzerland or to Panama or to some other tax haven. There it is placed in an anonymous account for investment in the United States. The investment is amalgamated with similar accounts, some of which are American; others European, Asiatic or African. Whatever purchases are made in the United States are in the name of an alien bank, an alien nominee or an alien corporation.

A withholding tax of 52 per cent should be collected on the profits earned but probably is not, as this gets involved in all sorts of reciprocal trade agreements and other devices. The fact is that the honest United States citizen who pays his taxes is gyped because he has to pay more as these thieves evade their taxes. What they fail to pay is charged to the honest citizen.

This is a subject that Congress is afraid to touch with a 10-foot pole. Everytime somebody brings it up, the smart members duck, because apparently very important persons and interests are involved who know how to bring pressure to bear on Washington officialdom.

The Whaley-Eaton Service recently said: "... Tax liabilities pyramid so fast on both the individual and the corporation as obviously to encourage various sharp practices."

Suppose the Treasury, on the other hand, were to recognize that it is the policy of the Administration to encourage Americans to invest money abroad. It would therefore establish a device which would give American money abroad an incentive and advantage. Such an incentive and advantage can only relate themselves to taxes. An American company functioning abroad should get an exceptional tax benefit if the risk taken has some national value. This already obtains in the Pakistani treaty which is one of the most unorthodox ever negotiated and signed by the United States since the extraterritorial treaties with Turkey and China were abrogated.

At any rate, something constructive needs to be done to plug up an ugly tax loophole—one that seems to be practised with pride by many distinguished persons who do not regard themselves as thieves.

Constitutional Crisis Seen Shaping Up For America

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — A constitutional crisis of major proportions is shaping up for America. It involves far more than the issue of attendance in mixed schools. It involves the broader question of whether the Supreme Court of the United States may suddenly declare that "equal protection of the laws" under the Fourteenth Amendment requires uniformity throughout the nation on all laws affecting citizens generally.

This could mean that the divorce laws of all the states must be the same, income-tax laws must be the same, laws regulating labor unions and corporations, respectively, must be the same, and laws must be uniform throughout the country with regard to all kinds of licenses and privileges which citizens of different states may desire to obtain or enjoy.

Few people realize the potential scope of the Fourteenth Amendment and its far-reaching impact if the present Supreme Court continues its current program of knocking down state laws that it considers socially or psychologically harmful or as involving discrimination between citizens in any field of endeavor.

Many millions of Americans undoubtedly feel that they are being discriminated against because they pay higher taxes to their own state than do citizens elsewhere. Many citizens object to the fact that, although they do business across state lines, they must pay local taxes in varying amounts to different states and cities where they sell their wares. If the Fourteenth Amendment means that no state shall deny "equal protection of the laws" to any citizen, the principle could apply as between citizens who live in different states instead of merely as between citizens of a single state.

The theory could be carried to the point where economic inequality can be condemned by the Supreme Court as readily as racial or social inequalities, under the doctrine that it is an obligation of government to guarantee equality as between citizens.

There would be a condition of near chaos in America if the Supreme Court invalidated, for instance, state laws on divorce. Husbands could stop paying alimony. Persons who had remarried in one state believing that they were legally divorced in another state could be made subject to various kinds of legal suits.

Yet, while such action may not be imminent, the stark fact is that the Supreme Court has set itself up as having the right to disregard at any moment all legal precedents of the past and to rule on what it believes is socially or psychologically desirable.

Today the slogan of the court, in effect is that the end justifies the means. This has been taken up far and wide across the nation by many people in an emotional crusade in support of the court's decisions. The public is being told repeatedly that everything the Supreme Court says is the "law of the land." Critics say the opposite — that a Supreme Court decision is the "law of the case" and can be reversed at any time, and that it merely covers the parties to the particular case and is not necessarily binding on anybody else. This fact has not sunk in as yet generally, though most lawyers know it has always been true.

The latest challenge to the idea that the school desegregation decisions are the "law of the land" in the sense that they actually can compel integration in every state has come from Governor Almond of Virginia. Himself a former state Attorney General and an able lawyer, Mr. Almond made a sensational statement on Thursday when he said: "No decision of the Supreme Court of the United States or any subordinate Federal Court requires or can require this state or any of its political subdivisions to operate any public school, whether integrated or not....

"No Federal Court is vested with authority under the decision of the Supreme Court to direct, compel or coerce any defendant district (school) superintendent or school board to assign or enroll any pupil in any school, or to do any affirmative administrative act pertaining thereto."

This is really the key to the program through which the southern states feel confident they can legally avoid forcible integration in the public schools. What Governor Almond is saying is that a Federal Court may order a school to cease segregation — which is a negative ruling, derived supposedly from the Fourteenth Amendment — but this is a far cry from saying a school board must admit anybody who asks to be enrolled just because a Federal Court has ordered it.

The states have always taken the position that they may be restrained from doing something, but they cannot be compelled "affirmatively" to do something. Once a student requests admission and it is denied, this is a separate case to be tried on its merits in the courts. It could mean prolonged litigation. But to say ahead of time that the school board in any community must enroll any applicants is to compel a state to take an affirmative action. It would be equally illogical and lawless for a Federal Court to tell a state legislature that, having denied funds for a certain school it must go ahead and appropriate money to run that school lest it come under disfavor of the court.

If states have lost their power to refrain from taking affirmative action on their own and if their legislatures or subdivisions of government are subject to compulsion to pass laws or issue diplomas under Federal Court orders, then the constitutional crisis ahead could result in the complete abolition of state governments and the emergence of the federal judiciary as the supreme legislative as well as judicial power in the country.

McDermott. First, there was a little. Then a little more. Soon, seminarian McDermott had nothing to worry about. His studies were good and he advanced. He spent his vacations with Quigley and the two talked of Ireland and the beloved hearts they missed.

Years, later, Quigley met a young lady. He fell in love. When they married, she came to the house he had bought and she made a home of it. There were several children and, when Father McDermott stopped by, all they knew was that he was a good friend to their father.

In time, the visits stopped. Father's duties carried him far from Pittsburgh. The years ticked slowly on. Quigley's oldest daughter said one day that she wanted to study to be a nun. The father was pleasantly surprised. Later, his favorite son said that he wanted to study to be a priest. Both children studied. Both made it.

The boy became a Carmelite. The girl became a Sister of Charity. This, to the old man, was a great and humbling triumph. When his wife died, he had no one at home to worry about. So he asked the Carmelites if he couldn't — at his advanced age — become a Brother. They thought about it and they said yes.

And now, the boy who lost the toss, lived out his declining years in a refectory. He was happy. His life's work was done. Instead of devoting his solitary energy to God, there were three Quigleys working for His greater honor and glory.

I sat one sunny afternoon in the rectory of St. Anastasia Church in Teaneck, New Jersey. Father Sylvester Quigley told the story to me. The 50th anniversary of his priesthood was approaching and he was reminiscing.

"It isn't much," he said. We talked about his sister, who later became Reverend Mother Benita, of the Sisters of Charity. It's just the story of a poor boy who lost the toss of a coin."

"Strange," I said, "that you should keep saying that he lost."

Some Cases Of 'Deafness' Caused By Ear Wax

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cerumenex is a new product that softens and loosens impacted wax in the ears. It was 86 per cent successful within 24 to 48 hours when given to 106 individuals. Partial removal of the wax occurred in the remainder of the series.

Wax is a common cause of dizziness, and of ear itching and pain. Hearing is impaired when the canal is blocked by this material. Joe, a local plumber, was despondent because he was becoming deaf. His fellow workers laughed at his "What cha say?" His wife kept insisting that he get a hearing aid. He finally was convinced and spent a week's wages on it but the device "didn't help a bit."

I asked him if he knew what had made him hard of hearing, and he shrugged his shoulders. It developed that he never had been to a physician. Up to this point, all the medical advice received had been from friends and relatives.

I reached for the otoscope, flipped on the light with my thumb, and looked into the ear canals. Both were filled with wax. I began to remove the wax and he exclaimed suddenly, "I can hear." He was sheepish but a new man within 10 minutes.

"How silly of me not to think of wax," he said. "After all, I make a living cleaning out drains when sinks plug up."

Every physician has had this experience. Impacted wax is not the only cause of deafness but is considered first. Looking into the ear canals is the easiest of all medical examinations, and removal of excess wax is neither difficult nor painful. The new ear drops will make it easier by softening and loosening the material.

The external ear canal is 1 1/4 inches long but only the outer third contains hair follicles and wax producing glands. Wax serves a purpose in keeping the parts clean and lubricated. Trouble comes only when it accumulates, hardens, and blocks the passageway.

Rudyard Kipling, particularly outraged by autograph hounds, was reading peacefully in his garden in England one day, when a neighbor barged in with an American who announced "she could never go home and face her husband without shaking the hand of the immortal Rudyard Kipling." Then she eyed the author-poet, noting he had on an old, thread-bare suit, was unkempt and—scowling darkly. "I never dreamed," she quavered, "that you were going to look like this."

"I don't look like this!" thundered Kipling. "This is one of my off-days. You've caught me being pestered by imbecile celebrity chasers!"

When Oscar Wilde was sentenced to prison, he was led out

Roy Face Makes 24th "Save" As Pirates, Braves Split

Relief Star Rescues Law In Nightcap

Bucs Beat Burdette, 4-1; Warren Spahn Notches 19th, 3-1

By RUDY CERNKOVIC United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The ambitious Pirates and the determined Braves exchanged pitching skills in a double-header split Sunday with Roy Face preserving a 4-1 nightcap victory for Vernon Law over Milwaukee following a five-hitter by Warren Spahn which marked his 19th triumph in a 3-1 decision.

Makes 24th Save

Raising his victory total to 12, Law had a four-hit, 4-0 shutout going into the ninth inning, but needed the diminutive Face who responded with his 24th "save" of the season. Red Schoendienst opened the ninth with a double, Johnny Logan followed with a single and Eddie Mathews' sacrifice fly saved the world champions from a shutout. Then Face, the ever-ready bullpen artist, got Frank Torre to pop up and Joe Adcock fled out for the last put-out.

The victory marked the third for the fired-up Pirates in a four-game series with the world champions who hold their league lead by 7½ games over Pittsburgh.

Yanks Divide, Magic Number Is Cut To Six

Ramos Winner, 1-0, Maas Cops 2nd, 7-0

NEW YORK (AP)—Young Pete Ramos padded his shutout string against New York to 22-13 innings with a six-hit, 1-0 decision Sunday before Duke Maas blanked the Senators 7-0 on four singles in the nightcap of the doubleheader.

The split reduced the Yankees' magic number to six for yet another American League pennant.

Any combination of New York victories and/or defeats by second place Chicago totaling six makes it nine flags in 10 years for Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees, who finished the season against Washington with a 12-10 edge.

Ramos, a slim right-hander who blanked the Yankees 3-0 with a six-hitter in their last meeting, was in trouble only once. That was in the fourth inning, when the champs loaded the bases with none out after a 54-minute delay because of rain.

The last place Senators, held to five hits, beat Bobby Shantz (7-5) in the fourth, before the rains came. A walk, Roy Sievers' ground rule double and an infield out bagged it for Ramos (14-13).

Maas (9-8), getting his first shutout and second consecutive complete game as a Yankee after failing to finish in 10 starts, drove in the first run with a two-out single in the second against loser Vito Valentinetti.

Tony Kubek hit his second homer and Elston Howard his 11th for the Yankees.

Martinsburg Defeats CCC By One Point

Local Golf Team Suffers 1st Loss

Golfers of the Martinsburg Country Club handed the links-men of the Cumberland Country Club their first defeat of the season in eight outings yesterday in a return match on the West Virginians' course. The score was 15½ to 14½ points.

In seven previous matches this season the CCC team had won six, including a 28-5 decision over Martinsburg, and was held to a 15-15 draw by the Preston Country Club team of Kingwood.

Martinsburg won five four-somes, Cumberland four and one ended in a draw. Each team won two contests by 3-0 scores.

Griffith Will Keep Senators In Washington

Decides Against Moving Team West

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Calvin Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, in an eleventh hour switch, has decided not to move his team to Minneapolis, the Associated Press learned Sunday.

Griffith arrived in Chicago earlier Sunday fully intending to seek permission of the American League to make the franchise shift. After meeting with the four-man realignment committee, headed by Del Webb of the New York Yankees, the young Washington executive apparently had a change of heart. The announcement that he intends to remain in Washington, for the time being at least, is expected to be made sometime Sunday night.

Several factors are believed to have influenced his sudden switch. The principal one is that he saw the handwriting on the wall—that the American League was prepared to deny his request. Other factors in his decision are the recent lawsuits filed against him recently by two Washington stockholders directed at keeping the Senators in the nation's capital.

The third reason is Griffith's awareness of a threat of the National League moving into Washington should the American League declare that city vacant. The National League has a meeting scheduled Monday to discuss internal affairs, one of which is the possible expansion to 10 clubs in the near future.

Banks Wallops 44th Homer As Cubs Take Two

Chicago Defeats Giants, 6-4, 4-1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs employed their favorite weapon—the home run—and rang up a double victory over the San Francisco Giants Sunday 6-4 and 4-1 before a crowd of 23,435.

A pair of homers by Walt Moryn and a three-run, tie-breaking smash by Lee Walls in the eighth inning accounted for all the Cub runs in the opener.

Ernie Banks provided all the necessary offense in the nightcap with his 44th homer and a two-run double to back the excellent three-hit pitching of Dick Drott.

Drott and Giant starter Reuben Gomez were hooked in a pitchers' battle until Banks opened the seventh with his line shot into the left field bleachers. Gomez gave way to a pinch batter in the eighth and the Cubs jumped on reliever Al Worthington for three runs with Banks again providing the big hit.

Drott, flashing the form which made him a 15-game winner last year, gained his 7th triumph against 11 losses. He struck out 10 and walked one. He lost his shutout in the ninth on Whitey Lockman's double and a pair of wild pitches.

Barrelville Posts 3-1 Triumph Over Zihlman

Markley Is Victor Over Dave Richards In Series Opener

Barrelville's Old Exports defeated Zihlman in the opening game of the best-of-five final playoff series in the Pen-Mar Baseball League by the score of 3-1 yesterday at Barrelville.

Jesse Markley, who turned in an 11-1 record during the regular season, kept Zihlman's seven hits well spaced and had a shutout going into the ninth inning when an outfield error produced Zihlman's lone tally. Markley fanned eight and issued two bases on balls.

Dave Richards also pitched a 7-hitter for Zihlman, whiffed eight and walked six.

Richards' wildness gave Barrelville its first two runs in the opening stanza. Galen McGregor singled, Jim Eckard drew a pass and Ronnie Cage's hit loaded the bases. Then Richards forced two runs over the plate when he walked Woody Woodson and Leroy Morris.

Singles by Markley, Clarence "Pooch" Lewis and Eckard sent over the Old Exports' final tally in the fifth.

In the ninth Ronnie Diehl drew a pass and scored later on Anderson's single and an error by Barrelville's centerfielder.

Lewis and Eckard of Barrelville and Jack Anderson and Joe Conroy of Zihlman had two hits each. Johnny Johnson of the Zippers rapped a two-bagger, the game's only extra base hit.

Zihlman will play host in the second game of the series next Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Zihlman knocked Grantsville out of the playoffs on Saturday by winning the semi-final series "rubber" game at Grantsville by the score of 2-0 behind the 4-hit twirling of Lefty Bill Haberlein. Bobby Dawson, winner of eight games in a row, was the loser.

Hyndman's pennant winning Merchants also bowed out of the playoffs on Saturday by losing the third and deciding game of their series to Barrelville at Hyndman by the score of 6-4 in ten innings. In this contest Bobby Raines and Glenn Deremer hooked up in a mound duel for the sixth time and the former was the victor. Raines fanned nine and Deremer six. George Miller's double and Harold Hudson's single scored the two runs in the extra inning.

Althea Gibson Wins, Quits Tennis For Singing Career

Cooper Beats Anderson In Title Match

Gibson Girl Tops Darlene Hard In National Finale

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Althea Gibson saved her tottering tennis throne with a comeback victory over Darlene Hard in the U.S. finals Sunday and then, in a surprising move, relinquished it for a singing career.

"I may never play tournament tennis again," the gangling Harlem girl said after beating Miss Hard, a bouncy ex-waitress from Montebello, Calif., 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, for her second straight American championship.

Althea's rallying triumph, marking her as one of the all-time greats of the game, and her pronouncement in a hurry-up press conference overshadowed the all-Australian men's final between Ashley Cooper and Mal Anderson.

Cooper Scores Triple

Cooper reversed the result of the 1957 final and won the men's championship with a brilliant, come-from-behind triumph over Anderson, his Davis Cup teammate, 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 10-8, 8-6.

And he accomplished the feat after injuring his right ankle in the 12th game of the final set.

The darkly handsome, phlegmatic young man from Melbourne thus completed a rare "triple"—the Australian, Wimbledon and U.S. crowns in a single year. The match produced brilliant, dramatic tennis—particularly in the final two sets—between two players who seemed to anticipate each other's every move.

Miss Gibson, who learned the game with crude paddles on the sidewalks of teeming Harlem, was heavily bundled and sniffling with a cold when she was ushered into the press marquee at the West Side Tennis Club.

Last Tourney For Year

"This was my last tournament match for at least a year," she said. "I will not defend at Wimbledon next year nor at Forest Hills. I plan to concentrate on my singing career."

At her elbow were a lawyer and adviser. They shook their heads in assent.

"If Althea's singing career is a success she never will return to competitive tennis," said her coach and chief adviser, Sydney Llewellyn. "Her main interest will be to secure her future."

Althea has appeared on national television networks with her throaty rendition of popular ballads and has cut one record album called "Althea Gibson Sings." Besides, she recently completed her memoirs, which ran serially in a national magazine and have been put into book form.

Completes Rare Feat

In capturing the U.S. title, the tall, 31-year-old New York Negro completed one of the rarest feats in women's tennis—that of winning two Wimbledon and two U.S. National titles back-to-back in two years.

Maureen Connolly did it in 1952 and 1953. Before that, you must go all the way back to Helen Wills in the Golden Twenties to match the accomplishment.

With her press conference previously announced, Althea had some anxious moments in her final match with Miss Hard, a stocky, 22-year-old college girl she beat in the 1957 Wimbledon final.

Althea was not at her best in the opening set, missing volleys which she normally gobbled up and overshooting the baseline with her drives. But Miss Hard, who seemed completely unawakened by the champion, applied the pressure with a strong net attack.

It was significant, however, that after winning the first set Miss Hard was able to win only three games in the next two.

Mrs. Margaret du Pont of Wilmington, Del., and Neale Fraser of Australia won the mixed doubles title by beating Maria Ester Bueno of Brazil and Alex Olmedo of Peru 6-4, 3-6, 9-7.

San Francisco Defeats Browns By Score 21-16

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers, sparked by the running of rookie Jim Pace and stellar defensive work by Bill Stits, pulled out a 21-16 National Football League exhibition victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

Pace, an All-America from Michigan, set up the payoff score with a fourth quarter 86-yard run that went into the end zone but was called back to the Cleveland 45 on a holding penalty.

Second string quarterback John Brodie, however, led the 49ers to paydirt six plays later with an eight-yard touchdown pass to R.C. Owens. Two minutes and one second remained in the game.

The Browns then quickly drove to the San Francisco 13, mainly on a 57-yard run by rookie Leroy Bolden. With less than 50 seconds remaining, rookie quarterback Jim Ninowski fired a touchdown pass to end Darrell Brewster but the play was nullified by a holding penalty. Then Stits intercepted another Ninowski pass on the 7-yard line and the game ended two plays later.

Chicago Drops Series Finale To Tribe, 4-3

Bob Avila's Pinch Hit Beats Donovan

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland beat the Chicago White Sox in the rubber game of their series Sunday 4-3 on an eighth-inning pinch single by Bob Avila.

That hit scored Rocky Colavito, who singled and Woody Held, who doubled, and sent Dick Donovan to his 13th defeat.

The White Sox were held to five hits by Don Ferrarese, Ray Narleski, who got credit for his 12th victory against 10 losses, and Morrie Martin.

Ray Boone smashed his 12th home run after Sherm Lollar's walk in the second inning, and Al Smith doubled in the third and scored all the way from second on Lollar's slow roller down the third-base line.

Vic Power, who hit his 14th home run of the season in the seventh, got into a jawing joust with Chicago manager Al Lopez in the fifth inning. After he was hit by a pitched ball, Power directed a remark to the visitors' dugout that brought Lopez charging out. Umpires separated the two before any blows were landed.

Three-Run Rally Defeats Lary, 3-2

DETROIT (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics batted around in a ninth-inning rally that produced three runs and a 3-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers Sunday before a sparse gathering of 6,089 at Briggs Stadium.

Frank Lary was working on a four-hit shutout until the ninth inning, when he was removed after giving up a lead-off walk to Hector Lopez, singles to Bob Cerv and Preston Ward.

George Susce relieved Lary with none out and one run home, and the tying marker scored when second baseman Frank Bolling's throw to the plate on Hal Smith's grounder was too late to get Cerv.

Catcher Harry Chitt bunted in front of the plate and the bases were loaded when the throw to third was too late to get Ward.

Susce retired Joe DeMaestri on a fly to shallow right, and southpaw Bill Hoft came in to strike out pinch-batter Chico Carrasquel.

But ex-Tiger Bill Tuttle brought home the game-winning run when his grounder to deep short went for a base hit.

Althea Gibson Wins, Quits Tennis For Singing Career

Cooper Beats Anderson In Title Match

Gibson Girl Tops Darlene Hard In National Finale

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Althea Gibson saved her tottering throne with a comeback victory over Darlene Hard in the U.S. finals Sunday and then, in a surprising move, relinquished it for a singing career.

"I may never play tournament tennis again," the gangling Harlem girl said after beating Miss Hard, a bouncy ex-waitress from Montebello, Calif., 3-6, 6-1, 6-2, for her second straight American championship.

Althea's rallying triumph, marking her as one of the all-time greats of the game, and her pronouncement in a hurry-up press conference overshadowed the all-Australian men's final between Ashley Cooper and Mal Anderson.

Cooper Scores Triple
Cooper reversed the result of the 1957 final and won the men's championship with a brilliant, come-from-behind triumph over Anderson, his Davis Cup teammate, 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 10-8, 8-6.

And he accomplished the feat after injuring his right ankle in the 12th game of the final set.

The darkly handsome, phlegmatic young man from Melbourne thus completed a rare "triple"—the Australian, Wimbledon and U.S. crowns in a single year. The match produced brilliant, dramatic tennis—particularly in the final two sets—between two players who seemed to anticipate each other's every move.

Miss Gibson, who learned the game with crude paddles on the sidewalks of teeming Harlem, was heavily bundled and sniffling with a cold when she was ushered into the press marquee at the West Side Tennis Club.

Last Tourney For Year
"This was my last tournament match for at least a year," she said. "I will not defend at Wimbledon next year nor at Forest Hills. I plan to concentrate on my singing career."

At her elbow were a lawyer and adviser. They shook their heads in assent.

"If Althea's singing career is a success she never will return to competitive tennis," said her coach and chief adviser, Sydney Lielewellyn. "Her main interest will be to secure her future."

Althea appeared on national television networks with her throaty rendition of popular ballads and has cut one record album called "Althea Gibson Sings." Besides, she recently completed her memoirs, which ran serially in a national magazine and have been put into book form.

Completes Rare Feat
In capturing the U.S. title, the tall, 31-year-old New York Negro completed one of the rarest feats in women's tennis—that of winning two Wimbledon and two U.S. National titles back-to-back in two years.

Maureen Connolly did it in 1952 and 1953. Before that, you must go all the way back to Helen Wills in the Golden Twenties to match the accomplishment.

With her press conference previously announced, Althea had some anxious moments in her final match with Miss Hard, a stocky, 22-year-old college girl she beat in the 1957 Wimbledon final.

Althea was not at her best in the opening set, missing volleys which she normally gobbled up and overshooting the baseline with her drives. But Miss Hard, who seemed completely unafraid by the champion, applied the pressure with a strong net attack.

It was significant, however, that after winning the first set Miss Hard was able to win only three games in the next two.

Mrs. Margaret du Pont of Wilmington, Del., and Neale Fraser of Australia won the mixed doubles title by beating Maria Ester Bueno of Brazil and Alex Olmedo of Peru 6-4, 3-6, 9-7.

San Francisco Defeats Browns By Score 21-16

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers, sparked by the running of rookie Jim Pace and stellar defensive work by Bill Stits, pulled out a 21-16 National Football League exhibition victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

Pace, an All-America from Michigan, set up the payoff score with a fourth quarter 86-yard run that went into the end zone but was called back to the Cleveland 45 on a holding penalty.

Second string quarterback John Brodie, however, led the 49ers to paydirt six plays later with an eight-yard touchdown pass to R.C. Owens. Two minutes and one second remained in the game.

The Browns then quickly drove to the San Francisco 13, mainly on a 57-yard run by rookie Leroy Bolden. With less than 50 seconds remaining, rookie quarterback Jim Ninowski fired a touchdown pass to end Darrell Brewster but the play was nullified by a holding penalty. Then Stits intercepted another Ninowski pass on the 7-yard line and the game ended two plays later.

Chicago Drops Series Finale To Tribe, 4-3

Bob Avila's Pinch Hit Beats Donovan

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland beat the Chicago White Sox in the rubber game of their series Sunday 4-3 on an eighth-inning pinch single by Bob Avila.

That hit scored Rocky Colavito, who singled and Woody Held, who doubled, and sent Dick Donovan to his 13th defeat.

The White Sox were held to five hits by Don Ferrarese, Ray Narleski, who got credit for his 12th victory against 10 losses, and Morrie Martin.

Ray Boone smashed his 12th home run after Sherm Lollar's walk in the second inning, and Al Smith doubled in the third and scored all the way from second on Lollar's slow roller down the third-base line.

Vic Power, who hit his 14th home run of the season in the seventh, got into a jawing joust with Chicago manager Al Lopez in the fifth inning. After he was hit by a pitched ball, Power directed a remark to the visitors' dugout that brought Lopez charging out. Umpires separated the two before any blows were landed.

Dodgers Wallop Five Home Runs, Trim Cards, 7-5
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers belted five home runs, two by veteran Gil Hodges, in a 7-5 victory over St. Louis Sunday which ended a 9-game road losing streak for Johnny Podres.

Podres picked up his 13th victory — the highest total of his major league career—but wasn't around at the finish.

Johnny Klippstein, taking over in the sixth, stopped the Birds until the ninth, when Sandy Koufax and Clem Labine stopped a rally.

The Dodgers blasted four homers off an old nemesis, Red Bird right-hander Larry Jackson, and knocked him out in the sixth. Hodges slammed his 21st and 22nd homers of the season. His first, a solo drive in the sixth, gave the Dodgers a 5-3 lead. His second, a two-run 400-foot blast in the eighth, iced the game.

Old Germans Beat Old Exports, 14-11

In a slugfest affair yesterday at Mt. Calvary field, the Old Germans defeated the Old Exports softball team at the picnic of Brewery Workers Local No. 265 by the score of 14-11.

"Hoot" Gibson's three-run homer in the 8th inning ignited a 5-run rally which sewed up the game for the Old Gees.

Al Drew and Ray Russell led the Exports with two hits each while Speir obtained three singles and Niland and Gibson two each for the winners.

Prendergast's catch in right field and Drew's play at short stop were the fielding highlights.

Eddie Martin umpired the game. Score:

Petrus Is Victor

George Petrus posted a net 71-3-68 to win the straight handicap tournament held over the weekend by the Men's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club.

Twenty-one members participated in the event.

Players with flags on par three holes were: No. 1—Clifton Van Roby, No. 6—Joe Wolfe, No. 12—Henry Johnson, No. 18—Steve Johnson.

With payday still a week away Stan Jones was forced to borrow—"Insurance premiums did me in—a whooper's due tomorrow. I wonder how Bob Work can live much higher on the hog. Yet pay those unexpected bills like falling off a log." For the answer see us about The Travelers Premium Policy Plan.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Beware! A yes answer to any of these questions is a warning signal.

Word Test Of Charm

Words are tools by which you reach other people and let them know what you're thinking. They represent you as alert and interesting, or quite the opposite. They can be dead-giveaways if they're monotonous. Monotonous speech shows up the person who's in a rut.

This list of questions was devised to point out a slowdown or the vocal variety of real dullness. And of course, it's all too evident that the dull person is lacking in charm. Ask yourself the questions and be warned if you must honestly answer yes to any of them. If you must, it's high time to examine your claims to charm and to make words work for and not against them.

Do you repeat the same words in sentence after sentence?

Have you stock phrases on tap to cover the same situation every time?

Do you say "you know" rather than find words?

Has it been years since you learned a half-dozen new words?

Are your ways of expressing yourself most often copied from someone else?

Do you think that the user of big words is affected?

Are you still using slang left over from five to ten years back?

A good vocabulary is an indication of better than ordinary intelligence, yet quite intelligent people sometimes misrepresent themselves with a poor one. Don't let your careless and dull use of words sell you short.

TOMORROW: Faults In Your Footwork.

Ike Takes Communion

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower knelt at an altar rail in a seaside chapel Sunday and took communion in a service devoted to world peace.

They took along to the interdenominational service in the green-raftered Chapel by the Sea two of their three visiting grandchildren, David, 10, and Barbara Anne, 9.

Bootlegging began in the United States in 1791 with the conflict between private makers of whisky and the government over the passage of Alexander Hamilton's excise law.

Quizzerdammerung

I was watching "Keeping Talking," a game show in which people like Ilka Chase, Paul Winchell, Joey Bishop and like that, make up stories as they go along. And you know what I think? I think it's fixed.

When Pat Carroll can sneak a bit about slithy toves gyring and gimbling in the wabe into a story about a truck driver, then I think there's been some advance preparation. I'd call the D. A.'s office. It I haven't got a dime handy. Or perhaps I just have a suspicious mind.

You can't believe anything any more — the quiz answers, the bright ad libs. Starting in September, NBC is inaugurating a new show "Brains and Brawn" in which golfers like Sam Snead and Tommy Bolt will stage driving contests on live television. The first hole-in-one to come along will inevitably provoke an outcry: "It's fixed."

As "Variety" pointed out, it was a week of wisecracks. Guys connected with the most notorious quiz show said they were "Under twenty-one" and possible jailbait. Jack Carson on ABC cracked: "Anyone want to buy ten unconnected dots?"

But the best news of all is the "Variety" editorial: "The now-it-can-be-told truth about the network money shows is that their death knell was sounded even pre-Dotto and the subsequent scandals involving 'Twenty-One.' The Neilsens and the Trendexes were telling the story long since of audience repudiation of the giveaway quizzes. What's happened since in rendering the whole kaboodle suspect is simply a case of driving the nail into the coffin and apparently hastening the last days of the big money show era."

Incidentally, "Brains and Brawn," the NBC show, which is at least partly quiz, is a bit of a switch in one respect. The whole world is now looking at American TV shows, including some pretty awful ones. From Bangkok to Rio, you can see "Lassie." But there are no foreign TV shows on American TV at all. At least, not until "Brains and Brawn" which is one of the most popular shows in France where it is known as "La Tete et Les Jambes."

As the name suggests, the idea is to pair an intellect with an athlete. The "brain" will answer a quiz question. His teammate will try his physical skill in some sort of test which will be done on remote pickups on live TV.

In this dull and scandal-ridden summer, the one bright spot has been the news coverage by the networks of the crisis in the Middle East. There's been a lot of coverage both regular and special. CBS's documentaries on the Middle East have been fact-filled, timely, interesting and visual—and you can hardly ask for more than that in a documentary. The only other quality you could decently ask for is intellectual courage, and reporting the problems of the Middle East doesn't require much of that. The Middle East, for instance, was reported much more fully than the developing crisis in Arkansas. It's much easier to pontificate on how to push progress in Kuwait than how to inch forward in Little Rock which has sponsors and viewers and opinions.

In his newsletter to TV editors, Robert Sarnoff, chairman of the board of NBC, patted NBC on the back for its extensive Middle East coverage while revealing that it brought complaints from some viewers. Not all viewers are happy about cancelling "Dragnet" to show the United Nations handling the crisis, he revealed. As a possible solution, he pointed to Baltimore's three-station parlay on the House Un-American Activities Committee hearings, each station taking a half day's telecasting in rotation and then telling its viewers where to continue watching on other stations.

It's an excellent suggestion, if the networks could get together on rotation. Not everyone wants to watch, say, a political convention. If one of them carried it, the other two could go about other matters.

CLOWN PRINCE ABDICATES
LONDON (UPI) — Comedian Wyn Calvin, who began billing himself the "Clown Prince of Wales" five years ago, said Friday that "I am abdicating as a loyal Welshman." The "abdication" followed a hint from Buckingham Palace that it might be a prudent move. Calvin began to have second thoughts about his billing when Queen Elizabeth II recently made her son, Charles, Prince of Wales. Calvin wrote the Comptroller of the Royal Household for guidance. The reply was that the usage "while not being any way impermissible, may give offense to others, particularly your countrymen."

Tawes Appoints Committee To Study Taxes

W. Earle Cobey
Member Of Group

By The Associated Press
The Democratic candidate for governor appointed a committee to study Maryland taxes Sunday. The Republican candidate immediately accused him of using the group to avoid the tax issue in the election campaign.

In naming the advisory and study committee, J. Millard Tawes said its job will be to study the "likely effects of the recently enacted Republican tax program." The program includes raising the state sales and income taxes from two to three per cent, as proposed by Republican Gov. McKeldin and adopted by the Democrat-controlled Legislature in its overdrawn 1958 session.

The study, Tawes said, will include the program's "overall impact on Maryland's economy, with particular emphasis on any inequities that may arise."

Richard W. Case, Baltimore lawyer and chairman of a gubernatorial tax revision commission 12 years ago, was named head of the Devereux group.

As Tawes was announcing creation of the advisory committee, Republican candidate James P. S. Devereux called this an "indication that he will not discuss during the campaign that which he describes as the major issue — state taxes."

"Is the commission to report before the election?" asked Devereux.

"No," my opponent is quoted as saying. "It will report to the next governor."

"Now, we must ask, in what capacity does my opponent appoint this commission of his? As a candidate?"

"If so, the report should contribute its findings to the campaign."

Devereux made the remarks in a speech before spectators and participants at the annual state archery championships near Frederick.

Elsewhere in the speech he described himself as someone who tries to be a "straight shooter."

"If I sometimes miss the target," he said, "it is because I am human; the error is that of the hand and the eye—not knowingly that of the heart."

Cobey On Committee

Besides Case, those named to the Tawes tax committee included lawyers W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland and Irving Rutledge of Hagerstown, businessmen W. Wallace Lanahan of Baltimore and Gilbert Nolte of Baltimore County; Woodrow F. Strong of Silver Spring, president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia AFL-CIO; Dr. Samuel L. Myers of Morgan State College; Sen. George B. Rasin Jr., (D-Kent); Del. Jerome Robinson (D—Baltimore); Del. Blair Lee III (D—Montgomery); and former State Senate President L. Harold Sotheron.

The first big labor endorsement of the campaign came Saturday when the Maryland-District of Columbia chapter of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen announced its support would go to the state-wide Democratic slate.

The chapter convention in Baltimore also endorsed the four Democratic representatives seeking reelection and the three other Democrats seeking election to the house.

Police Probe Various Thefts

City police have received a number of complaints of breaking and entering attempts and larceny during the past several days.

Walter Bucy, of 414 Race Street, said someone attempted to enter his garage by prying at the hasp and lock.

The owner of the Modern Cleaners, 110 Virginia Avenue, reported an attempted entry of the storeroom and the breaking of a window in the building.

James D. Pugh Jr. of RFD 2, Eastman Road, said hubcaps were taken from his car while it was parked on Paca Street.

He said each hubcap was worth about $7.95. He said an "L" and "R" were spray-painted on the inside, indicating the left and right hubcap.

Governor To Visit

District Governor Howard A. "Pop" Lindaman, Altoona, Pa., will make his annual official visit to the Rotary Club of Cumberland on Tuesday when the organization will hold its yearly club assembly at 6:30 p.m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Beall Answers Butler Charge On U.S. 40

Blames Democrats For Deletion From Interstate System

Senator J. Glenn Beall charged yesterday that Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler either was misinformed or was "misrepresenting the facts" when Butler attacked him in a speech here last week.

Mr. Butler, speaking at an Allegany County Democratic rally last Thursday night at the Ali Ghan Country Club, declared that Senator Beall had not worked hard enough to get U. S. Route 40 between Hancock and Washington, Pa., into the Interstate Highway System.

Senator Beall said: "Mr. Butler either was misinformed, doesn't understand, or deliberately misrepresented the facts."

Blames Democrats

He said it was the previous Maryland administration (Democratic) that caused the Western Maryland segment of U. S. 40 to be dropped from the Interstate System in the planning stage.

"The present Republican administration in the state has made repeated efforts to get Route 40 west of Hancock into the Interstate System," said Senator Beall.

He said he has done everything possible toward this end, but has been blocked by Pennsylvania's refusal to go along with the idea.

When the Interstate System was approved by Congress, it included U. S. 40 only as far west as Hancock, from where traffic would go north on U. S. 522 to the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Senator Beall said both the Maryland State Roads Commission and the West Virginia State Road Commission have worked with him to get the western leg of the route included in the system.

It's Up To Pennsylvania

The U. S. Bureau of Roads, he said, remains powerless to change the route without the agreement of Pennsylvania.

Senator Beall blamed the former State Roads Commission headed by Robert M. Reindollar (1945-1950) for allowing U. S. 40 to be dropped from the nationwide federal aid program when it was in the planning stage.

Since then, he said, the present State Roads Commission and others in the state's Republican administration have made every effort to get back what was lost.

But, he said, so long as Pennsylvania holds out for its present position, "neither Tommy D'Alessandro nor anyone else can do anything."

County Hi-Y Council Elects

Officers of the Allegany County Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council were elected at the 12th annual Officers Training Camp which ended its two-day session yesterday at Pleasant Grove in Garrett County.

The training program was attended by approximately 40 members and leaders of five schools in the county under the sponsorship of Central YMCA.

The newly-elected officials are Carolyn Cook, Beall Tri-Hi-Y, and Patsy Kelley, Bruce Tri-Hi-Y, co-presidents; Bertha Duke, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, and Ronnie Broadwater, Bruce Hi-Y, co-vice presidents; Bonnie George, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, secretary; Phil Beeman, Beall Hi-Y, treasurer; Dorothy Hill, Beall Tri-Hi-Y, chaplain; and Becky Haines, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y.

The two-day program includes lectures on various phases of Hi-Y life, fund raising, world service and the possibility of introducing Red Cross work into the Hi-Y clubs in the county.

The school clubs represented at the training camp were from Allegany, Fort Hill, Valley, Bruce and Beall high schools.

B. U. Smith, general secretary of Central YMCA, was superintendent of the training camp, assisted by David Rowley, Joel Downey and Carole Ransom.

The first county council meeting is scheduled Sunday, September 21, at 2 p.m. in Frostburg.

South End Businessmen To Hear Former Official

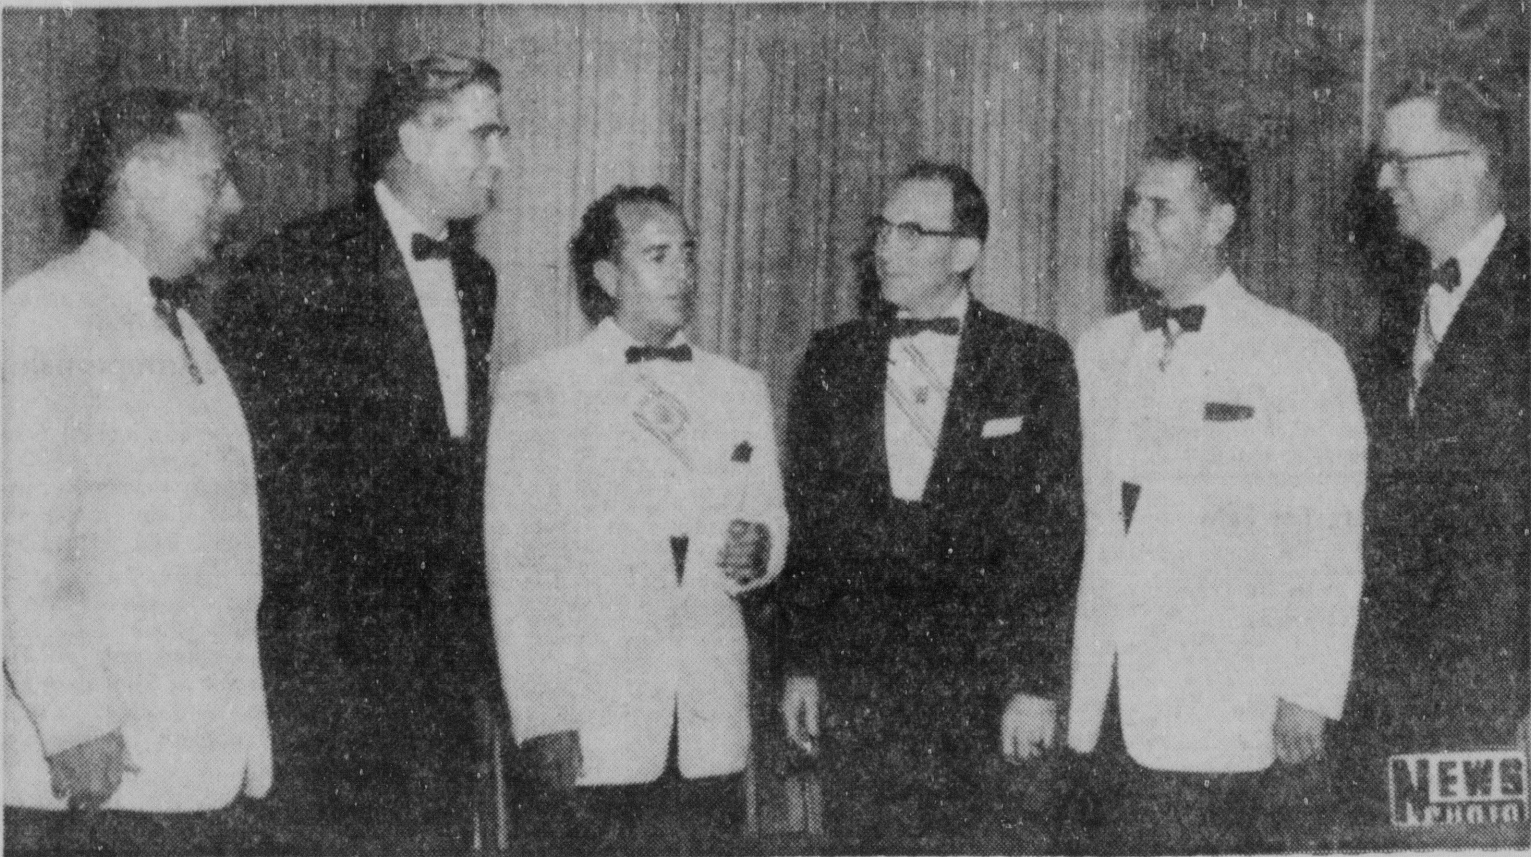

A Harrisburg, Pa., attorney, David R. Perry, will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner dance of the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association on September 16 at 6:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

General chairman is John Snyder, who is being assisted by Dr. Blair W. Stump, associate president, as co-chairman; Wesley Taylor and Harry Wilson.

The meal is being arranged by Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. Blair W. Stump and Mrs. Wesley Taylor. Music for the dance will be provided by Peck Mills and his orchestra. Tickets are available from members of the association's board of directors and at the Cumberland Savings Bank.

Mr. Perry, who addressed the 1958 graduating class of Fort Hill High School in June, is now engaged in private practice in Harrisburg after having been in Pennsylvania State service from 1933 until 1955.

From 1933 until 1939 he represented Blair County in the House of Representatives, and in 1939 was appointed special deputy attorney general in charge of unemployment compensation. In 1947 he resigned to become cabinet secretary to Gov. James H. Duff.

Knights Confer At Dinner Meet

navigator of the Assembly, Norman Fearnow, master of ceremonies of the banquet; John F. Nagel, master of the Fourth Degree of Maryland, and John Kreidler, general chairman. Mr. Quinn presented Mr. Humelsine with a gift from the Assembly in recognition of his work as master of the Fourth Degree from 1948 to 1955 and as state deputy from 1955 to 1958, as well as his recent election as a director.

23 Graduate From School Of Nursing

A Westernport girl received the Dr. Blane M. Schindler award for the highest scholastic average during the commencement exercises of Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing last night at St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

She is Miss Rose Mary Ord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ord.

Some 23 graduating nurses were presented diplomas by Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Killenny, pastor, and rural dean of Western Maryland.

Other awards are as follows: Miss Cecelia Cadwallader, Frostburg, the Dr. Richard J. Williams award for the highest average in the theoretical course in cardiology.

Miss Mary Ann Mascioli, Morgantown, W. Va., the Dr. Richard J. Williams award for second highest in the theoretical course in cardiology.

Miss Mary Jane Farrell, Midland, the Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing Alumnae award for the best bedside nurse.

Miss Elgerina Camples, Luke, the award from the president of the Maryland State Nurses Association, District One, for leadership in nursing activities.

Miss Joann Neubeiser, city, the Sacred Heart Hospital Auxiliary award for outstanding proficiency in the practice of nursing.

Miss Mary Virginia Morgan, Frostburg, the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Cardinal Gibbons No. 529, award for leadership.

Miss Rita Martha Nies, Westport, the Milton Bernstein award for excellence in nursing.

Miss Barbara Tyree, city, the faculty of the Sacred Heart School of Nursing award for the most generous nurse.

Miss Regina Lippold, city, the Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing award for the best medical and surgical nurse.

The medical staff of the hospital gave $50 for the student's picnic.

Rev. Joseph M. Mascioli addressed the graduating class. The program began with the processional "Pomp and Circumstance," and included the hymn to the Sacred Heart, "Ave Maria"; presentation of roses to Mary Immaculate by the graduating class; and solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, with the Saint Patrick's choir singing "Panis Angelicus." "Tantum Ergo," and "Praise Be To Thee," concluding with the "Marche aux Flambeaux." Sister Mary Josephine played the organ.

Other members of the graduating class are JoAnn Clark, Carmela Theresa Idoni, Mona JoAnn Payne, Margaret Elizabeth Ravenscroft, Shirley Jean Stiver and Rosemary Virginia Wotring, city; Charlotte Louise Castle, Ridgeley; Darlene Naomi Fazenbaker, Barton; Nancy Lee Lancaster, Mt. Savage; Constance Suzanne Ward and Patricia Ann Williamson, both of Keyser; and Sandra Marie Thompson, Hyndman, Pa.

Eight Judges Selected For Flower Show Today

Eight judges have been selected for the fifth annual community flower show which will be sponsored here today and tomorrow at the Eagles Home by the Garden Club of Cumberland.

Mrs. William Frailey, general chairman, said judging will begin at 11:30 a.m. today, and the display will be open to the public from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. today, and from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Stuart Haller and Miss Helen Smith, both of Frederick; Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. Asa Watkins of Mt. Airy are the accredited judges, while the student judges will be Mrs. Claude Bowers and Mrs. Peyton Thrasher of Frederick; Mrs. M. K. Talley of Westminster, and Mrs. Jennings Bailey of Mutton Hill, Adams-town.

Mrs. Haller, a judge with much experience and a well-known arranger, is also known for her work in organizing and conducting flower show schools for judges.

In order to become an accredited judge the applicant must not only complete a course in horticulture, design and related subjects, followed by a written examination, but must also have won a certain number of blue ribbons and acted as a student judge in a number of accredited shows.

Miss Smith also is an experienced judge and a well-known artist. She and Mrs. Haller have judged flower shows here before. Mrs. Watkins has served on the board of the Fifth District of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland and is probably best known for her knowledge of horticulture.

Mrs. Thrasher is president of the Green Wall Garden Club, and Mrs. Talley, of the Carroll Garden Club. This club won the coveted national award for flower show achievements last year.

Mrs. Bailey has held many posts on the board of the Fifth District, and as organization chairman she was present at the first meeting of the Cumberland Garden Club.

Following the judging today Mrs. George Henderson, co-chairman of the show, will entertain the judges at an informal luncheon at her home. Guests will include Mrs. E. F. Peters of Frederick, director of the Fifth District; Mrs. John Caspar of Hancock, a member of the board; Mrs. James Wagaman of Hagerstown, general chairman of the District Flower Show scheduled in Hagerstown September 30; and Mrs. Jesse Hakes of Glenwood.

Mrs. Hakes has served on both the district and national boards of the Federated Garden Clubs, is on the board of the American Society of Horticulture, and is nationally known for her work with these organizations.

Among committee members not previously listed is Mrs. Earl Nonnenmann, who is on the dismantling committee.

Report On 20-Year Study Of Conservation Available

"The First Twenty Years," a report on the conservation and development of Maryland's farmland soil and water resources, has been completed and is now available in Cumberland.

Martin Gordon, acting work unit conservatist of the local Soil Conservation Service office, said organizations interested in obtaining a copy of the comprehensive 32-page report may get one at his office, 37 Washington Street.

They are also available at the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger at the Court House. The report was prepared by the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee, with Dr. Gordon M. Cairns, dean of agriculture, University of Maryland, as chairman.

Erosion, contour farming, strip cropping, crop rotation, cover crops, diversion terraces, gully control, soil waterways, drainage system outlet ditches, farm drainage systems, roadbank erosion control and farm ponds are among the many conservation practices covered.

The report also includes pictures with the explained practices. One such picture was taken on the farm of Kenneth Smith, Little Orleans.

"How Conservation Plans are Tailored to the Farm," and "The Way of Soil Conservation District," are explained in the report, which outlines the 20 years of progress in the districts.

Mr. Gordon said copies will be sent to the County Commissioners and to the Board of Education.

Fire Destroys Repair Shop At Airport

Small Plane Lost In Blaze, Another Saved By Workers

A small Piper Cub plane and several thousand dollars worth of parts, tools, and equipment were destroyed last night when a fire of undetermined origin swept quickly through the aircraft maintenance shop at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Warren R. Mullenax, manager of the airport, said the blaze was discovered at about 8:30 p. m. by Paul DeMoss of Bedford Valley, Pa., an administrative assistant at the airport.

The flames spread rapidly through grease, oil, acetylene equipment, gasoline and paint in the shop, so that DeMoss, who owned the airplane, and Dick Roberts, a mechanic, were able to save very little.

One Plane "Rescued"

The two men, despite the danger from exploding acetylene and gasoline, rushed into the shop and managed to wheel a $9,000 Navion four-passenger plane from the shop before it caught fire.

But the fierce flames forced the two to abandon any attempt to get the Piper Cub and other equipment from the building, which burned to the ground despite the efforts of firemen from three companies who responded to the alarm.

The Navion and the Piper Cub were in the shop for repairs. Mr. Mullenax said the shop had been closed for the night when the fire broke out.

Mr. Mullenax had high praise for the promptness with which the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company answered the call, followed quickly by South End Fire Company from Cumberland and the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company.

Cause Unknown

The blaze was brought under control about 10 p. m. with no injuries reported among airport personnel or firemen.

The shop, located on the west side of the airport near Wiley Ford, was about 200 yards from the administration building, which was not harmed.

Mr. Mullenax placed the loss of the plane, tools and equipment at more than $8,000. He said he did not know the value of the building itself.

An investigation will begin today to try to determine the cause of the fire.

Few Register For Voting In This County

Representatives of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors are beginning to wonder whether all of the county residents entitled to vote in the November 4 general election are already registered.

Since August 28, Miss Bessie R. Baird and John J. Zapf, substitute registrars, have visited 11 communities around the county and have registered only 57 prospective new voters in all of that time. The greatest number was 14 registered at the LaVale Fire Hall the afternoon and evening of September 4. Worst showing was at Zihlman, where not a soul was signed up in three hours.

Only two weeks remain for prospective new voters to register. Monday, September 22, is the absolute deadline.

The schedule for Miss Baird and Mr. Zapf this week is as follows:

September 8 and 9, Herman S. Athey store, 432 Virginia Avenue, 2 until 5 p.m. and 6 until 9 p.m.; September 10, 2 until 5 p.m., Bedford Road Fire Hall; 6 until 9 p.m., Baltimore Pike Fire Hall; September 11, 2 until 5 p.m., Piney Plains School; 6 until 9 p.m., Flintstone Fire Hall.

Any person who will have lived in Allegany County one year on or before November 4 and will have reached his 21st birthday on or before that date may register now.

Registration may be completed at the Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday or between 9 a.m. and noon on Saturday. There also will be evening hours the last several days before the deadline.

Tawes Appoints Committee To Study Taxes

W. Earle Cobey Member Of Group

The Democratic candidate for governor appointed a committee to study Maryland taxes Sunday. The Republican candidate immediately accused him of using the group to avoid the tax issue in the election campaign.

In naming the advisory and study committee, J. Millard Tawes said its job will be to study the "likely effects of the recently enacted Republican tax program." Cobey On Committee
Besides Case, those named to the Tawes tax committee included lawyers W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland and Irving Rutledge of Hagerstown, businessmen W. Wallace Lanahan of Baltimore and Gilbert Nolte of Baltimore County; Woodrow F. Strong of Silver Spring, president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia AFL-CIO; Dr. Samuel L. Myers of Morgan State College; Sen. George B. Rasin Jr., (D-Kent); Del. Jerome Robinson (D-Balto 4th); Del. Blair Lee III (D-Montgomery); and former State Senate President L. Harold Sotheron.

The first big labor endorsement of the campaign came Saturday when the Maryland-District of Columbia chapter of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen announced its support would go to the state-wide Democratic slate.

The chapter convention in Baltimore also endorsed the four Democratic representatives seeking reelection and the three other Democrats seeking election to the house.

Beall Answers Butler Charge On U.S. 40

Blames Democrats For Deletion From Interstate System

Senator J. Glenn Beall charged yesterday that Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler either was misinformed or was "misrepresenting the facts" when Butler attacked him in a speech here last week.

Mr. Butler, speaking at an Allegany County Democratic rally last Thursday night at the Ali Ghan Country Club, declared that Senator Beall had not worked hard enough to get U. S. Route 40 between Hancock and Washington, Pa., into the Interstate Highway System.

Senator Beall said: "Mr. Butler either was misinformed, doesn't understand, or deliberately misrepresented the facts."

Blames Democrats

He said it was the previous Maryland administration (Democratic) that caused the Western Maryland segment of U. S. 40 to be dropped from the Interstate System in the planning stage.

"The present Republican administration in the state has made repeated efforts to get Route 40 west of Hancock into the Interstate System," said Senator Beall.

He said he has done everything possible toward this end, but has been blocked by Pennsylvania's refusal to go along with the idea.

When the Interstate System was approved by Congress, it included U. S. 40 only as far west as Hancock, from where traffic would go north on U. S. 522 to the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Senator Beall said both the Maryland State Roads Commission and the West Virginia State Road Commission have worked with him to get the western leg of the route included in the system.

It's Up To Pennsylvania

The U. S. Bureau of Roads, he said, remains powerless to change the route without the agreement of Pennsylvania.

Senator Beall blamed the former State Roads Commission headed by Robert M. Reindollar (1945-1950) for allowing U. S. 40 to be dropped from the nationwide federal aid program when it was in the planning stage.

Since then, he said, the present State Roads Commission and others in the state's Republican administration have made every effort to get back what was lost.

But, he said, so long as Pennsylvania holds out for its present position, "neither Tommy D'Alessandro nor anyone else can do anything."

County Hi-Y Council Elects

Officers of the Allegany County Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council were elected at the 12th annual Officers Training Camp which ended its two-day session yesterday at Pleasant Grove in Garrett County.

The training program was attended by approximately 40 members and leaders of five schools in the county under the sponsorship of Central YMCA.

The newly-elected officials are Carolyn Cook, Beall Tri-Hi-Y, and Patsy Kelley, Bruce Tri-Hi-Y, co-presidents; Bertha Duke, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, and Ronnie Broadwater, Bruce Hi-Y, co-vice presidents; Bonnie George, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, secretary; Phil Beeman, Beall Hi-Y, treasurer; Dorothy Hill, Beall Tri-Hi-Y, chaplain; and Becky Haines, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y.

The two-day program includes lectures on various phases of Hi-Y life, fund raising, world service and the possibility of introducing Red Cross work into the Hi-Y clubs in the county.

The school clubs represented at the training camp were from Allegany, Fort Hill, Valley, Bruce and Beall high schools.

B. U. Smith, general secretary of Central YMCA, was superintendent of the training camp, assisted by David Rowley, Joel Downey and Carole Ransom.

The first county council meeting is scheduled Sunday, September 21, at 2 p.m. in Frostburg.

navigator of the Assembly, Norman Fearnow, master of ceremonies of the banquet; John F. Nagel, master of the Fourth Degree of Maryland, and John Kreidler, general chairman. Mr. Quinn presented Mr. Humelsine with a gift from the Assembly in recognition of his work as master of the Fourth Degree from 1948 to 1955 and as state deputy from 1955 to 1958, as well as his recent election as a director.

23 Graduate From School Of Nursing

A Westernport girl received the Dr. Blane M. Schindler award for the highest scholastic average during the commencement exercises of Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing last night at St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

She is Miss Rose Mary Ord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ord.

Some 23 graduating nurses were presented diplomas by Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkeny, pastor, and rural dean of Western Maryland.

Other awards are as follows: Miss Cecelia Cadwallader, Frostburg, the Dr. Richard J. Williams award for the highest average in the theoretical course in cardiology.

Miss Mary Ann Mascioli, Morgantown, W. Va., the Dr. Richard J. Williams award for second highest in the theoretical course in cardiology.

Miss Mary Jane Farrell, Midland, the Sacred Heart Hospital School of Nursing Alumnae award for the best bedside nurse.

Miss Elgerina Campesi, Luke, the award from the president of the Maryland State Nurses Association, District One, for leadership in nursing activities.

Miss Joann Neubeiser, city, the Sacred Heart Hospital Auxiliary award for outstanding proficiency in the practice of nursing.

Miss Mary Virginia Morgan, Frostburg, the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Cardinal Gibbons No. 529, award for leadership.

Miss Rita Martha Nies, Westport, the Milton Bernstein award for excellence in nursing.

Miss Barbara Tyree, city, the faculty of the Sacred Heart School of Nursing award for the most generous nurse.

While announcing these special allocations, J. Kenneth Morgan, chairman of the allocations committee and a member of the CUF executive committee, pointed out that this special contribution from the Cumberland Lions Foundation made it possible for the CUF to grant these additional awards to the member agencies to meet specific capital improvements needs, and thereby helped to keep the goal of this year's campaign down to $339,622.

Mr. Morgan stated, "The County United Fund is most appreciative of the foresightedness and thoughtfulness of the members of the board of directors of the Cumberland Lions Foundation for making these funds available for the capital needs of CUF agencies."

CUF Allocates Contribution Of Lion Foundation

Club Gives $8,800 To United Campaign

The executive committee of the County United Fund announced last night the distribution of funds contributed to the CUF by the Cumberland Lions Foundation earlier this year.

The Cumberland Lions Foundation contributed $8,800 to the County United Fund to be used only for member agency capital improvements and or member agency expansion.

In accordance with the conditions of this restricted contribution, the CUF executive committee made the following allocations from this fund:

$2,215 was granted the Central YMCA to help defray part of the expense of renovating the shower and locker rooms in the YMCA building and to purchase new equipment for the physical education department of the local "Y."

$5,536 was allocated to the Friends Aware of Handicapped Children, Cumberland Chapter, to purchase a 20-passenger bus which will replace an old worn-out station wagon. The bus is used by this CUF agency to transport the handicapped children to and from their special school; it is also used during the summer months in conjunction with the day camp and resident camp program of this agency.

$1,049 was awarded to The Salvation Army to meet in part the costs of purchasing property in Southview Addition for a new home for the South Cumberland Outpost which must be relocated because of the new Industrial Boulevard.

While announcing these special allocations, J. Kenneth Morgan, chairman of the allocations committee and a member of the CUF executive committee, pointed out that this special contribution from the Cumberland Lions Foundation made it possible for the CUF to grant these additional awards to the member agencies to meet specific capital improvements needs, and thereby helped to keep the goal of this year's campaign down to $339,622.

Mr. Morgan stated, "The County United Fund is most appreciative of the foresightedness and thoughtfulness of the members of the board of directors of the Cumberland Lions Foundation for making these funds available for the capital needs of CUF agencies."

Luncheon Planned
Following the judging today Mrs. George Henderson, co-chairman of the show, will entertain the judges at an informal luncheon at her home. Guests will include Mrs. E. F. Peters of Frederick, director of the Fifth District; Mrs. John Caspar of Hancock, a member of the board; Mrs. James Wagaman of Hagerstown, general chairman of the District Flower Show scheduled in Hagerstown September 30; and Mrs. Jesse Hakes of Glenwood.

Mrs. Hakes has served on both the district and national boards of the Federated Garden Clubs, is on the board of the American Society of Horticulture, and is nationally known for her work with these organizations.

Among committee members not previously listed is Mrs. Earl Nonnenmann, who is on the dismantling committee.

Eight Judges Selected For Flower Show Today

Eight judges have been selected for the fifth annual community flower show which will be sponsored here today and tomorrow at the Eagles Home by the Garden Club of Cumberland.

Mrs. William Frailey, general chairman, said judging will begin at 11:30 a.m. today, and the display will be open to the public from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. today, and from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. tomorrow.

Mrs. Stuart Haller and Miss Helen Smith, both of Frederick; Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. Asa Watkins of Mt. Airy are the accredited judges, while the student judges will be Mrs. Claude Bowers and Mrs. Peyton Thrasher of Frederick; Mrs. M. K. Talley of Westminster, and Mrs. Jennings Bailey of Mutton Hill, Adamstown.

Mrs. Haller, a judge with much experience and a well-known arranger, is also known for her work in organizing and conducting flower show schools for judges.

Experienced Judges
In order to become an accredited judge the applicant must not only complete a course in horticulture, design and related subjects, followed by a written examination, but must also have won a certain number of blue ribbons and acted as a student judge in a number of accredited shows.

Miss Smith also is an experienced judge and a well-known artist. She and Mrs. Haller have judged flower shows here before. Mrs. Watkins has served on the board of the Fifth District of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland and is probably best known for her knowledge of horticulture.

Mrs. Thrasher is president of the Green Wall Garden Club, and Mrs. Talley, of the Carroll Garden Club. This club won the coveted national award for flower show achievements last year.

Mrs. Bailey has held many posts on the board of the Fifth District, and as organization chairman she was present at the first meeting of the Cumberland Garden Club.

Following the judging today Mrs. George Henderson, co-chairman of the show, will entertain the judges at an informal luncheon at her home. Guests will include Mrs. E. F. Peters of Frederick, director of the Fifth District; Mrs. John Caspar of Hancock, a member of the board; Mrs. James Wagaman of Hagerstown, general chairman of the District Flower Show scheduled in Hagerstown September 30; and Mrs. Jesse Hakes of Glenwood.

Mrs. Hakes has served on both the district and national boards of the Federated Garden Clubs, is on the board of the American Society of Horticulture, and is nationally known for her work with these organizations.

Among committee members not previously listed is Mrs. Earl Nonnenmann, who is on the dismantling committee.

District Youth Group To Meet
A district youth fellowship rally will be held at the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Potomac Park this evening at 7:30 p.m.

District officers of the group will be elected at a short business session which will follow an outdoor wiener roast, games and devotionals.

Walter Bosley of Potomac Park will be the guest speaker at the rally. His topic will be "Youth and Religion."

Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Report On 20-Year Study Of Conservation Available

"The First Twenty Years," a report on the conservation and development of Maryland's farmland soil and water resources, has been completed and is now available in Cumberland.

Martin Gordon, acting work unit conservationist of the local Soil Conservation Service office, said organizations interested in obtaining a copy of the comprehensive 32-page report may get one at his office, 37 Washington Street.

They are also available at the office of County Agent Joseph M. Steger at the Court House. The report was prepared by the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee, with Dr. Gordon M. Cairns, dean of agriculture, University of Maryland, as chairman.

Erosion, contour farming, strip cropping, crop rotation, cover crops, diversion terraces, gully control, sod waterways, drainage system outlet ditches, farm drainage systems, roadbank erosion control and farm ponds are among the many conservation practices covered.

The report also includes pictures with the explained practices. One such picture was taken on the farm of Kenneth Smith, Little Orleans.

"How Conservation Plans are Tailored to the Farm," and "The Way of Soil Conservation District," are explained in the report, which outlines the 20 years of progress in the districts.

Mr. Gordon said copies will be sent to the County Commissioners and to the Board of Education.

Fire Destroys Repair Shop At Airport

Small Plane Lost In Blaze, Another Saved By Workers

A small Piper Cub plane and several thousand dollars worth of parts, tools, and equipment were destroyed last night when a fire of undetermined origin swept quickly through the aircraft maintenance shop at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Warren R. Mullenax, manager of the airport, said the blaze was discovered at about 8:30 p.m. by Paul DeMoss of Bedford Valley, Pa., an administrative assistant at the airport.

The flames spread rapidly through grease, oil, acetylene equipment, gasoline and paint in the shop, so that DeMoss, who owned the airplane, and Dick Roberts, a mechanic, were able to save very little.

One Plane "Rescued"

The two men, despite the danger from exploding acetylene and gasoline, rushed into the shop and managed to wheel a $9,000 Navion four-passenger plane from the shop before it caught fire.

But the fierce flames forced the two to abandon any attempt to get the Piper Cub and other equipment from the building, which burned to the ground despite the efforts of firemen from three companies who responded to the alarm.

The Navion and the Piper Cub were in the shop for repairs. Mr. Mullenax said the shop had been closed for the night when the fire broke out.

Mr. Mullenax had high praise for the promptness with which the Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company answered the call, followed quickly by South End Fire Company from Cumberland and the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Company.

Cause Unknown

The blaze was brought under control about 10 p.m. with no injuries reported among airport personnel or firemen.

The shop, located on the west side of the airport near Wiley Ford, was about 200 yards from the administration building, which was not harmed.

Mr. Mullenax placed the loss of the plane, tools and equipment at more than $8,000. He said he did not know the value of the building itself.

An investigation will begin today to try to determine the cause of the fire.

Few Register For Voting In This County

Representatives of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors are beginning to wonder whether all of the county residents entitled to vote in the November 4 general election are already registered.

Since August 28, Miss Bessie R. Baird and John J. Zapf, substitute registrars, have visited 11 communities around the county and have registered only 57 prospective new voters in all of that time. The greatest number was 14 registered at the LaVale Fire Hall the afternoon and evening of September 4. Worst showing was at Zihlman, where not a soul was signed up in three hours.

Only two weeks remain for prospective new voters to register. Monday, September 22, is the absolute deadline.

The schedule for Miss Baird and Mr. Zapf this week is as follows:

September 8 and 9, Herman S. Athey store, 432 Virginia Avenue, 2 until 5 p.m. and 6 until 9 p.m.;

September 10, 2 until 5 p.m., Bedford Road Fire Hall; 6 until 9 p.m., Baltimore Pike Fire Hall; September 11, 2 until 5 p.m., Piney Plains School; 6 until 9 p.m., Flintstone Fire Hall.

Any person who will have lived in Allegany County one year on or before November 4 and will have reached his 21st birthday on or before that date may register now.

Registration may be completed at the Board of Election Supervisors' office in the Court House basement between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday or between 9 a.m. and noon on Saturday. There also will be evening hours the last several days before the deadline.
